

Senate To Probe Campaign Funds In Pennsylvania

Reed of Missouri Introduces Resolution Which Is Passed by Vote of 59 To 13.

FUROR IS CAUSED IN G. O. P. RANKS

Many Republican Senators Leave Senate Chamber When Vote Is About To Be Taken.

Washington, May 19.—Investigation of campaign contributions, expenditures and political deals affecting candidates for United States senator this year was ordered by the senate Wednesday because of rumors of corruption in the Pennsylvania primary just held.

Under pressure from the democrats, the senate adopted the resolution of Reed, of Missouri, calling for appointment by Vice President Dawes of a committee of five senators to investigate use of money, deals, secret agreements and other influences in senatorial primaries this year. Most significant is that Reed's resolution calls for a committee that shall include three republicans, one of whom shall be a progressive, and two democrats. This means that only two old line regular republicans can be named, thereby making the committee more or less hostile to the administration and to the conservative republicans generally.

Vice President Dawes appointed to the committee Reed, of Pennsylvania, and Deneen, of Illinois, republicans; La Follette, of Wisconsin, progressive republican; Reed, of Missouri, and Bayard, of Delaware, democrats. The vote was 59 to 13. But those cold figures do not tell the real story of the worried senators who trembled in agony during the roll call. Seven senators, all republicans, left the chamber hurriedly just before the vote was taken. Thirteen other republicans voted against considering the resolution, but when a show-down vote was forced on the resolution itself, switched and supported it. Democrats, of course, were unanimously on the offensive, seeing in the move only opportunity for embarrassing the republicans without any danger whatever to themselves.

Begin at Once. This investigation, under the terms of the resolution, must begin at once. It will cover not only the Pennsylvania primary, where press reports stated that $2,000,000 to $5,000,000 had been spent on one side, but also the recent Illinois primary, where there have been rumors of large expenditures running possibly to $1,500,000 and any other contest which the committee desires to scrutinize. The authority for such inquiries is implied, according to Reed, in the right of the senate to hold the qualifications of all members to hold their seats and the right to eject any one elected through fraud or corruption.

It is no secret among the democrats that they expect to build up such a picture of vote buying and political bargaining as will make the Newberry case seem trivial and will splash so much mud on republican candidates that they cannot wash themselves off by the November election.

Ominous Signs. There were ominous signs when the senate assembled Wednesday. News dispatches by that time had indicated that Senator Pepper, the administration candidate, had been defeated for reelection despite the heroic efforts of the Mellon group, and that Representative William S. Vare, whose sole claim to office was that he favored return of beer and wine, had been given one of the largest majorities ever returned in a primary fight in Pennsylvania.

As the senate gathered, Harrison, of Mississippi, was seen to be carrying a newspaper containing a dispatch by Leo R. Sack, a well-known Washington correspondent, which stated that it was conservatively estimated that

BRITAIN AND U. S. OPPOSE FRANCE ON MAIN ISSUE

Question Arises on Distinction Between Defensive and Offensive Armaments of Nations.

CECIL IS BACKED BY HUGH GIBSON

Briton Declares Many Defensive Units Can Be Used for Offense, So Should Be Limited.

Geneva, May 19.—American and British viewpoints continue to come into conflict with those of France and the French allies on questions concerning the proposed disarmament conference to be held under the auspices of the League of Nations.

The second important clash of the preliminary meeting Wednesday came over the question of distinction between offensive and defensive armaments. Lord Robert Cecil, British representative, insisted that all defensive armaments except fortifications can be used for offensive purposes and that therefore there must be limitation of all such armaments.

Hugh Gibson, American representative, was quick to support Cecil's viewpoint. Gibson declared that it would be difficult to make a distinction in the matter. While coastal and internal land fortifications are generally regarded as defensive, Gibson pointed out that it is possible to utilize them for offensive purposes if they are near a frontier. According to the American viewpoint, he said, it is the use that is made of armaments rather than their character which renders them offensive or defensive.

Paul Boncour of France and De Broeckere of Belgium were on their feet instantly to disagree with the expressions of the American and British delegates' opinions. Boncour insisted that it is absolutely imperative to establish a difference between offensive and defensive armaments, especially in the matter of naval armaments where he contended there is a marked difference. The commission, he said, must seek to limit as much as possible all offensive armaments but must leave individual nations free to develop their own defensive armaments. He contended that such protection is the greatest possible security against war.

The same lineup with France was apparent Wednesday when the French delegate disagreed with Cecil and Gibson as was apparent Tuesday. De Broeckere of Belgium followed Boncour and endorsed the French stand in its entirety.

AERIAL ATTACK ON NEW YORK PICTURED. Geneva, May 19.—An aerial attack on New York, with its citizens driven from the streets by a terrific bombardment and 500,000 deaths within a few hours, was pictured to the preliminary disarmament meeting here Wednesday by Professor De Broeckere, Belgian delegate to the present session.

"A new war would end our civilization," declared De Broeckere in supporting the claim of France that distinction must be made between defensive and offensive armaments in any new limitations plan.

De Broeckere's portrayal of a possible attack on New York was vivid. He described the manner in which hundreds of thousands would be killed by poisonous gases and the heavy damage to the big buildings.

Police Chiefs—Past, Present and Future

Left, E. L. Jett, former acting chief of police who resigned and left the department Wednesday afternoon on pension. Center, C. P. Connolly, former acting assistant chief, who has been designated to serve as acting chief until Chief of Police James L. Beavers (right) returns to office. It is reported Beavers will resume his post early next week following receipt of the court of appeals' remittitur in the long litigation following his trial and dismissal as head of the police department.

LAY DELEGATES TO M. E. SESSIONS WILL BE DOUBLED

Measure Is Most Important Passed at Memphis Session; Final Sessions Held Today.

Memphis, Tenn., May 19.—(AP)—Lay representation in every annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, with few exceptions, will be practically doubled by the action of the general conference here today in passing a measure which gives laymen one member in the annual conference for every 800 members in the district.

This measure, standing beside all legislation passed by the session of the conference which began May 5, and which will close Thursday is by far the most important matter acted upon favorably by the governing body of the church.

The conference, holding three sessions today, plunged into the mass of routine matters which cluttered the calendar. The lay representation proposal came up in the course of getting through the routine and was passed with but little debate.

The far-reaching effect of the legislation is illustrated by the increase it will give in representation in one conference. Virginia, heretofore, that conference has had eighty lay delegates. Under the new law it will have 200. All other conferences, with the exception of the very small ones, are increased in proportion. The smaller conferences will continue to entertain eight delegates from each district conference, regardless of the membership.

The increased representation in the annual conferences will in turn increase the total membership of the general conference. One other matter which caused debate and which will have considerable effect on the church was a resolution from the board of missions, which requested all bishops assigned to foreign territory to live within the territory over which they have jurisdiction.

The resolution was introduced as a result of a determined effort by mission delegates to elect missionary bishops, a thing which the conference steadfastly refused to do.

Dr. Stonebraker of Anderson, a target for attacks from the fundamentalists in the conference, won a decisive victory during the morning session when he was reelected secretary of the body of the church by a wide margin. Dr. G. L. Morelock was elected secretary of the board of lay activities and Dr. C. C. Jarrell was reelected secretary of the general hospital board.

Adjournment sine die for Thursday noon was voted late in the day and the ticket offices of the city since that time have been crowded with delegates.

Young Motor Thieves Must Serve 6 Years

Two 15-Year-Old Youths Are Sentenced To Terms On Farm.

Two 15-year-old white youths were sentenced to serve six years each in the industrial farm of Fulton county Wednesday by Judge Edgar E. Fomero in Fulton superior court after they had entered pleas of guilty to charges of automobile theft.

Johnnie Walker, was indicted jointly with Tommie Kilgore by a Fulton county grand jury on April 27. It was alleged that the defendant stole an automobile on April 24, the property of T. C. Kelly. Walker entered a plea of guilty to the theft of the Kelly machine and was sentenced to the industrial farm until he becomes of age. Kilgore was tried before Judge Fomero, and was acquitted by a jury in the first criminal session of Fulton superior court. The second youth to receive a six-year sentence was James Grist, 15, who entered a plea of guilty to the theft on May 6 of an automobile, property of the Exchange Realty company.

In the trial of both cases Assistant Solicitor General John H. Hudson introduced as evidence a list of alleged automobile thefts in which the youths are alleged to have figured. Both the boys were given a severe reprimand by Judge Fomero.

A sentence of $100 and a sentence of six months was given C. B. Chapman, Jr., registered at a local hotel, upon payment of the fine, Chapman was put on probation.

PASTOR WHO CALLED MEMBER "JUDAS" SUED FOR DAMAGES

New York, May 19.—Because he says Rev. Robert McCaul, Baptist pastor of Brooklyn referred to him as a Judas and his church pew as a love nest, Benjamin Tuthill, a member of the church, has filed a slander suit against the pastor asking $100,000 damages.

Tuthill, an engineer in the Brooklyn museum, has been sued for slander by McCaul, who has signed an affidavit which asserts that the love nest was so open that the pastor could see the members of the church. ## PATTERSON IS HEAD OF COTTON TEXTILE MEN'S ASSOCIATION

George S. Harris, Atlanta, Honored With Second Vice Presidency of Body.

With election of new officers, delivery of reports by officials and reading of several important papers, the thirtieth annual convention of the American Cotton Textile Manufacturers' association came to a close at the Biltmore Wednesday.

Samuel Finley Patterson, of Rono Rapids, N. C., was elected president; James J. Gossett, of Williamsport, S. C., first vice president; George S. Harris, of Atlanta, second vice president, and Winston D. Adams, of Charlotte, was reelected secretary-treasurer.

Secretary Adams delivered his annual report during the session, in which he complimented the retiring president, William J. Vereen, of Moultrie, in highest terms for constructive work achieved during his administration.

Stuart W. Cromer, of Crumpton, N. C., made a report on the work of the national committee and of the national council, of which he is chairman, and laid emphasis upon importance to the textile man of settlement of agricultural problems.

An interesting report was made by Captain Ellison A. Smyth, of Flat Rock, N. C., of the traffic committee.

Speeches of the morning were delivered by F. Gordon Cobb, of Lancaster, S. C., on "Research and the Southern Textile Industry," and by E. G. Field, of New York, who spoke on "Political Cost Accounting for Cotton Manufacturers."

Mr. Cobb urged importance of standardization of any industry to be successful in modern times. He used the automobile manufacturing industry as an example, pointing that motor makers alone have saved over $600,000,000 through standardization of operations alone. He stated that among big industries of the country, cotton textile is one of the very few which has not standardized its operations.

CONNALLY NEW CHIEF NAMED BY COMMITTEE; JETT VOTED PENSION

Starving Babe and Mother Found Amid Rags in Shack

PITIFUL DISCOVERY IN EAGAN PARK MADE BY WORKERS

Little Molly is only eleven months old, but more misery and heartache have been packed into her brief life than the average human experiences in his allotted three score and ten.

Until Wednesday, she lived in a two-room shack on Harrison road in Eagan park, where charity workers discovered her Wednesday sleeping fitfully on a pile of filthy rags, her thin lips sucking at a piece of rubber inner tubing sewn into the semblance of a nipple.

This nipple was fitted over the neck of a whiskey bottle. Through the crazy stitches in the piece of rubber the baby was sucking sour milk. Molly—daughter of Mrs. Mattie Wollie—weighed exactly eight pounds on the scales at Grady hospital where she was taken for physical examination.

"A plain case of starvation," interned at the hospital told Mrs. Leona Brannen, secretary of the Humane society, who handled the case on a basis of cruelty to children. "The child has hardly had enough to eat to keep it alive. There is nothing we can do."

So it was that, out of the sordid grime and hardship this tiny tot has had to endure because fate decreed that it should be born into poverty of which the average Atlantan never even dreams, sunshine finally came into little Molly's life.

Wednesday night her stomach was well filled with nourishing food for the first time in days and days; her emaciated little body was clean and warm, and she was sleeping peacefully in a bed at the Georgia Children's Home society. Moreover, there was prospect that somehow life might make up for all the cruelty and the misery she had known.

Today Molly's mother, who has fought a game but losing fight to provide for six persons out of a mill hand's pitifully small wages, will be placed in the rescue home until arrangements for her future can be made. She, too, was comfortably fed Wednesday and life had taken on a rosy hue on the strength of the fact that nourishment sufficient to sustain her life was to be hers at least for a time.

"Except for a few crackers," she told Mrs. Brannen, "I haven't eaten nothing for four days."

She made no complaint; she did not bewail her lot and rail at fate, but with that slow, expressionless smile that seems to distinguish the poor unfortunate of this world, she described her plight in a monotone without emotion.

Living in a two-room shack with Molly and her mother were the child's grandparents and their daughter-in-law abed with an infant child. The grandparents slept on a bed. The others lay on rags on the floor. And they probably dreamed bright dreams of a time when they too might sleep in a bed and have something really good to eat.

If Atlanta's great heart beats as it should, these dreams soon will be realized.

Holcombe, Senior Police Captain, Named Acting Assistant Chief by Council Committee.

RETIRING CHIEF ADDRESSES BODY

Tells Committee That Whole Department Is in Good Condition as He Surrenders Reins.

Acting Assistant Chief of Police C. P. Connolly was designated acting chief of police and Captain A. J. Holcombe, Atlanta's senior captain in point of service, was named acting assistant chief at a meeting of the police committee of city council Wednesday night at the police station. These temporary appointments were made to fill vacancies caused by retirement on pension of Acting Chief E. L. Jett.

The designations, carrying no increases in pay, are to stand until next meeting of the police committee, according to a vote of the committee. The next regular session is slated for June 2.

It was said by members of the committee that Beavers cannot assume his duties as chief until the present committee formally reappoints him, and that this precludes his taking his post before the next meeting.

Acting Chief Jett, who has been serving in that capacity since Chief of Police James L. Beavers was ousted from the post in April, 1924, was granted a pension by formal action of the pension board of the police department at a special called meeting Wednesday afternoon. An hour later the police committee of council met and made the temporary selections.

Jett was retired on a $2,000 annual pension, half of a chief's salary. The motion to accept Jett's application for resignation was made by Assistant City Treasurer J. H. Ewing, Jr. Mr. Ewing moved that the request be granted with regret. This motion was seconded by Police Lieutenant John W. Blazer.

Members Praise Jett. Members of the board eulogized Jett, declaring that he had shown himself to be an efficient executive during a period of many trials and vexing problems. Every member was high in his praise, and the action of the pension committee was accepted in the same spirit in which that body accepted the application for pension.

Chief Jett made a short address, in which he expressed his love of the department and his regret at severing his connection with it. "But," the police veteran declared, "I feel that it is best for the department and me to leave the work to younger men. I have done my best and I am proud of this time. I believe, in the best condition it has enjoyed since I have been acquainted with it. The whole force is working smoothly and without friction. Members have their shoulders in the wheel, assisting in law enforcement."

"I feel good, but sad. That is as nearly as I can express my feelings. I consider you all my friends, and hope that some time in the future I can return some of the many kindnesses you have extended me."

Acting Assistant Chief Connolly has been connected with the department since Jan. 1, 1925.

How Are All Your Rabbits?

Maybe "Somebody's Stenog" has started a slang greeting that will become popular, and maybe she hasn't—time alone will tell.

But there is one thing that has been started in Atlanta that is growing every day, and that is the custom of reading the advertisements that appear in The Constitution every morning.

Morning hours are reading hours, free from the entertainments and diversions of the afternoon and evening. Atlanta merchants know this, and they know that the purchasing agents of the homes are reading their advertisements in The Constitution, hence they are making their best offers in Constitution advertisements.

CHANGES ARE MADE IN M. E. DISCIPLINE.

Memphis, Tenn., May 19.—(Special.)—In the closing session of the conference Dr. E. Y. Dempsey took the place of Dr. J. H. Baker as a member of the general conference. One of the changes of discipline of special interest to women was the substitution of the word "comfort" for "serve and obey" in the bride's vow in the marriage ceremony.

The question of increased lay representation led to a spirited debate participated in by Dr. Bescom Anthony and Dr. T. D. Ellis, member of the South Georgia conference. The measure was passed that the laymen of each district be represented in the annual conference in the ratio of one to every 800 members. An exciting debate occurred on the question requiring bishops to the foreign field to live in foreign fields. M. M. Baker, a former Georgian, now of Tulsa, Okla., made a strong speech, insisting that the bishops reside within their area. While the original paper was toned down it still expressed the mind of the conference that bishops should give more time to their areas.

AVIATOR LEAVES TO RACE TIME AROUND GLOBE

(Copyright, 1926, by The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance.) New York, May 19.—The watch clicked on John Goldstrom at four o'clock, eastern standard time, this afternoon, as the Mauretania moved out of her dock starting him on the first lap of his race around the world. Every minute is precious for the 30-year-old flyer—writer now as the swiftest steamer afloat races toward Plymouth with him.

Goldstrom has no room-mate in E-66 of the great liner. At the last moment his partner, Morris Titterton, one of the owners of an airplane instrument factory, was compelled to cancel his participation in the race to attend to business affairs. Mr. Titterton's withdrawal will not alter in any way the plans of the trip to break the time record for circling the globe, Mr. Goldstrom said.

Goldstrom should arrive in Plymouth May 24 and may reach Berlin by plane the same day. From Berlin he expects to fly to Moscow in a day and from Moscow he will continue by plane to Omsk, 1,100 miles away. He expects to arrange to be met there by Japanese flyers, who will carry him to Yokohama. He must reach Yokohama before June 7 or he is almost certain to lose his race. The President Madison of the Dollar lines sails on that day and constitutes his only chance to make a Pacific crossing within his scheduled time.

The racer was notified yesterday by officials of the steamship company that the President Madison, a fast boat, would endeavor to make a record crossing for every second saved across the Pacific will be saved.

The difference between a good salad and an extra good salad is usually the vinegar.

Vinegar that is simply sour cannot impart flavor. Only vinegar that is flavor itself can give flavor to other foods.

Heinz Vinegars are flavor—flavor that begins with the selection of only the finest ingredients, further developed by long aging in wood which is the only true way to produce vinegar at its best. Good vinegar cannot be hurried.

New Atlanta-Florida Line Of Seaboard Is Discussed In Report by Warfield

Chief of Road in Annual Report Analyzes Plans for Developments in South.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Seaboard Air Line railroad, just held, President S. Davies Warfield in his annual report covering the details of the past year with analysis of the unusual developments which have characterized the growth of the system during the past year, made specific reference to the establishment of new lines from Atlanta to Savannah and Jacksonville, and to the west coast line from Atlanta via Macon to Savannah.

Several months ago President Warfield announced that these lines would be established in due course and that a statement of the routes would be made.

Just what the Seaboard's new connection from Atlanta to Savannah will be is not yet stated, but in his annual report, President Warfield announces that its new line from Atlanta via Macon to Savannah will be the "shortest existing route between these two cities."

The Seaboard already has its own line from Savannah to Macon, its own main line from Savannah to Montgomery, and its direct connection at Vidalia with its subsidiary line, the M. D. & S. to Macon.

Whether it expects to reach Atlanta from Macon by building a new line, or through traffic connection with the Southern or Central of Georgia remains to be seen, but undoubtedly the management of the Seaboard has mapped out a program for its Atlanta approach, details of which will soon be submitted to the interstate commerce commission for approval.

In his annual report of the stockholders' meeting President Warfield said:

"In a letter to the stockholders dated February 16, 1936, the president of your company briefly made mention of plans in connection with proposed extensions and acquisitions of lines by lease or purchase, including cut-offs and trackage which will greatly reduce mileage to and from important points and gateways in continuation of the plan to mould the Seaboard into a compact railway system. While concrete plans will be later completed and put before the interstate commerce commission for approval, the construction, leased lines, cut-offs and trackage rights will give the Seaboard system its third line of railroad into 'land' and other Florida points and a new short line to and from these points, opening up new gateways via the west coast, Perry, Fla., Albany, Ga., Montgomery, Ala., to the west; and a short line to Atlanta, Macon and immediate points, also a short line from Atlanta via Macon to Jacksonville, Fla., and other points. This will open up a new and important short line route from the west via western gateways to Birmingham and Montgomery, also from Atlanta via the proposed Inglis-Dunwoody-Wildwood cut-off, to West Palm Beach, Palm Beach, Miami, Homestead, Florida City and other important points on the east coast and in the ridge country of Florida. Thus will be realized the Seaboard's long contemplated plan for a connection between its Atlanta-Birmingham line and its Savannah-Montgomery line and its Florida lines; the new line will also materially relieve the Jacksonville-Tampa main line to the east and west. The new construction, together with the cut-offs, leased lines and trackage rights, in conjunction with other Seaboard lines, will insure the prompt handling of Florida's growing traffic by the Seaboard system to all points."

Details to Follow.
The statement is definite, and from it there is every assurance that an important announcement may be expected from the Seaboard at an early date, announcing a new direct line to Savannah from Atlanta, connecting here with its lines from Birmingham, Ala., and from the east.

It has been currently rumored for some time that the Seaboard would soon build a short connection between its Macon and Savannah line to Thalmann just north of Brunswick, on the main line of the Seaboard between Savannah and Jacksonville. This connection, with the Atlanta-Macon line provided for, would establish a direct "all Seaboard" route from Atlanta to Jacksonville. News developments following this important announcement will be watched with interest.

MOVIES WITH MUSIC BY RADIO FORECAST BY DAVID SARNOFF

Atlantic City, N. J., May 19.—(AP) Moving pictures synchronized with music or speech distributed by radio were forecast as a development of the near future in a speech before the Electric Light Association convention today by David Sarnoff, vice president of the Radio Corporation of America.

The speaker said that transmission of moving pictures presents no problem other than speeding up the process of transmitting still pictures.

An idea of the size of radio audiences was given when he said that the super power station at Bound Brook, N. J., had a normal audience of 5,000,000 persons with that number tripled for unusual programs.

Report of Jury Reveals Horrors Of Prison Camp

Birmingham, Ala., May 19.—Partial insight into the recent investigation of the Alabama convict lease system was given when the Jefferson county grand jury, which conducted the inquiry, made public a brief report of some of its findings.

Charles R. Davis, former warden of Flat Top prison camp, who was indicted after the hearings, was scored in the report, and Dr. J. E. Robbins, prison physician, sharply criticized. The jury's report was incomplete as the investigation is to be continued later. It was submitted only on recommendation and was confined solely to a dispassionate statement of what had been discovered at Flat Top regarding the death of James Knox, which started the investigation.

It recommended that all convicts be removed from the mines and placed at other labor. It charged also that Davis, while warden, had turned over the management of the interior of the mine to Cecil Houston, so-called "Killer of Flat Top," and left Houston to administer justice as he saw fit.

Best Convicts.
"It was customary," the report says, "for Warden Davis to administer a severe beating over the head of the convict with a hose pipe."

"Ninety per cent of the convicts who appeared at witnesses bore scars, mite reminders of encounters with brutal taskmasters. Walter Guilford was so severely beaten that his face was swollen until his eyes closed so that he was blind, and yet, in that condition he was led into the mines by fellow convicts, who, out of pity, performed his tasks for him."

"That the hose pipe was an instrument of punishment was brought into use by the warden very frequently, amounting almost to an everyday affair, was amply established by the testimony of the victims and others who were in a position to know the fact."

Referring to the death of James Knox, the grand jury confirmed the findings which held that Knox died of heart failure while being ducked

During the testimony Commissioner Costigan several times held whispered conversations with Senator Robinson, democrat, Arkansas, chairman of the committee, and spent most of the time pacing back and forth in the rear of the room.

"My point is that Commissioner Costigan have given his own testimony and allowed me to make mine," Mr. Culbertson continued.

"All this has gone on without any communication with me. I am willing to help clear up the situation on the commission but I don't see why it cannot be done."

Paris.—President Doumergue, a firm believer in the constitution and walking, recently one morning was forced to give up his daily stroll because a personal bodyguard failed to appear. There is a section in the French law which requires the president of France to be accompanied by a personal bodyguard whenever he ventures beyond the fences of the Elysee.

DOUGHERTY WANTS SENATORS FAIL PERMANENT ROADS TO NAME BOYLES

Albany, Ga., May 19.—(AP)—The position of Dougherty county with reference to roads entering the county were expressed today by Chairman A. J. Lippitt of the Dougherty commissioners, in addressing members of the state highway commission at the hearing here to determine which projects shall be given state aid.

"We will meet the state half way on every road it will give us," he stated amid applause. "We want roads, the more, the better. We will do our part in building them and building them permanently."

Hearings before the highway commission, all three members of which are now in attendance, began again here this morning at 11 o'clock at the local courthouse with the question of state aid on roads in the central southern portion of Georgia taking first place.

The roads to be discussed in the order in which they will be taken up include the Broxton-Rebecca road via Fitzgerald, the Fitzgerald-Ashburn road via Rebecca, the Sylvester-Ashburn-Fitzgerald, to route 32 road, and the Abbeville-Ashburn road. At 2 o'clock this afternoon the question arising for discussion was with regard to state aid on a road from either Camilla or Pelham via Cairo to the Florida state line with Tallahassee as the other end of the route.

Yesterday afternoon's session was devoted to discussion of state aid in construction of an underpass in East Albany, a suburb, where several main trunk lines of the Atlantic Coast Line cross both the Dixie highway and the Florida short route, most heavily traveled roads leading into Albany. After members of the city commission, the county commission and officials of the Coast Line had appeared before the highway board, Stanley S. Bennett offered assurance that state aid for the project would be forthcoming in the event such aid is found to be legal.

Representatives were heard regarding questions pertaining to the Florida short route between Dawson and Dougherty county line, that portion of this route lying in Dougherty is already in process of paving.

Hearings on the proposed road in Calhoun, Early and Randolph counties came to a close yesterday following extended argument for and against the proposition of state aid on the Calhoun-Edison road. This road has been the occasion of more bitter discussion than any other road since the hearings began Monday morning, owing to the importance of the territory secured and to the position of the roads as now existing.

NEGRO METHODIST BISHOPS ASSIGNED FOR FOUR YEARS

Kansas City, Mo., May 19.—(AP)—Assignments of bishops to serve for the next four years were announced today by Rev. R. S. Williams, of Augusta, Ga., following the closing here last night of the 15th quadrennial session of the General Conference of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church.

The assignments: North and South Carolina, Florida and East Florida, Bishop R. S. Williams; Mississippi conference, Bishop Elias Cottrell; West Kentucky, Bishop C. H. Phillips; Georgia conference, Bishop R. A. Carter; Oklahoma and Arkansas conferences, Bishop N. C. Cleaves; Alabama and New Orleans conferences, Bishop R. T. Brown; Louisiana and Tennessee conferences, Bishop J. C. Martin; Kansas and Missouri, Southeast, Illinois, Washington and Philadelphia conferences, Bishop J. Arthur Hamlett; Texas conference, Bishop John W. McKinney.

Saloon League Gives Support.
The Anti-Saloon league has entered the controversy, Senator Heflin revealed, when he made public a letter he had received from Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel, urging support of Heflin on the ground that "Boyles has established a splendid record in the enforcement of the 18th amendment during the four years of his administration, and we sincerely hope that you can be present when the question is before the senate and respectfully request that you give the matter of his confirmation your careful consideration as we sincerely believe his record merits his reappointment."

The case for the opponents of the reconfirmation was opened by Senator Underwood, who said that the evidence adduced by the senate judiciary subcommittee had demonstrated that Heflin was not a fit person to hold the district attorneyship.

He reviewed at length the activities of Harry French, informer in the district attorney's office who collected approximately $20,000 in six months from bootleggers who assumed that they were purchasing "protection." Some 120 of these were indicted later on evidence obtained by French, but 113 of these indictments were dismissed.

Negroes Substituted.
He also referred to the testimony that negroes had been substituted for white defendants in two prohibition enforcement cases and had been permitted to plead guilty and receive fines of $150.

Boyles, Senator Heflin declared, had deceived the prohibitionists and had received $400 from Tom Cleveland, a bootlegger, ostensibly to obtain evidence against the "bootlegging ring" in Mobile.

Senator Heflin referred also to the charge that $100 had been collected from two bootleggers to pay Heflin's assessment to the Coolidge presidential campaign fund in 1924.

These charges and others that Heflin was not in harmony with the other officials of the court, and had usurped power, were sufficient, the Alabama senators contended, to make reconfirmation undesirable.

Chairman Cummins and Senator Ernst said that with the facts before the judiciary committee, nothing except a favorable report could have been voted in view of the fact that neither Alabama senator had appeared before the committee.

LAKEWOOD PARK READY FOR POLICE BARBECUE

Lakewood Park, long Wednesday with the sound of hammers and the thud of picks as crews of workmen, reinforced by details of Atlanta police, rushed final preparations for the great police benefit barbecue to be given at the park Saturday afternoon. Scouting squadrons sent out Tuesday to select the meat to be served at the feast reported to Lieut. J. W. Blaser, president of the police relief association, that supplies ample to feed a host of 5,000 would be ready for the big day.

Tickets for the barbecue can be secured through members of the police department, and arrangements are to be made to supply late comers with tickets at the park during Saturday. A program of entertainment is being arranged by a special committee on music under Lieutenant R. L.

REFUSED BIRTH HERE NEGRO CLAIMS IN SUIT

Chicago, Ill., May 19.—(AP)—A complaint of J. P. Harden, negro lawyer, that he had been refused a berth on a Pullman car at Atlanta last July, was heard today by the interstate commerce commission.

Fred Traber, ticket agent at Atlanta, denied that Harden had applied for a berth or had been refused. Harden claimed damages of $25,000 because he was "forced to take a later train and was delayed in reaching Chicago." He asserted that it was a "well known fact that negroes are discriminated against" by the Pullman company. Counsel for the Pullman company objected to the assertion as irrelevant.

'Parson Lacy' Unlimbered Amid War's Hell on Earth

The Rev. Ben H. Lacy, Jr., was the "fighting parson" of the 113th field artillery during the late war. They say of him that during the late war's hell on earth he was as successful in his clashes with the enemy as he is today in attacks on the devil.

Several accounts of "Parson" Lacy's gallantry in action, both with bayonet and with Testament, were printed during and after the war. But it was not until his resignation as pastor of the Atlanta Central Presbyterian church to head the Union Theological seminary, Richmond, Va., that the latest story came Wednesday into the hands of newspapers.

It comes from the lips of a non-commissioned officer from Kingston, W. Va., who, with others from that city, was a member of the staff of the 113th.

"We ran across a deserted German battery," the non-com says, "and found in addition to a gun, plenty of ammunition. We wanted to bring the thing into play, but there wasn't a man in the whole gang who could figure out the German tables and symbols, which were absolutely essential to their use. We were stumped."

"Enter Chaplain Lacy just at the moment when we were all about ready to give it up as a bad job. In no time he solved the problem and worked the gun for the better part of two hours. The fire was said to have been effective. At any rate, it was hot and well directed."

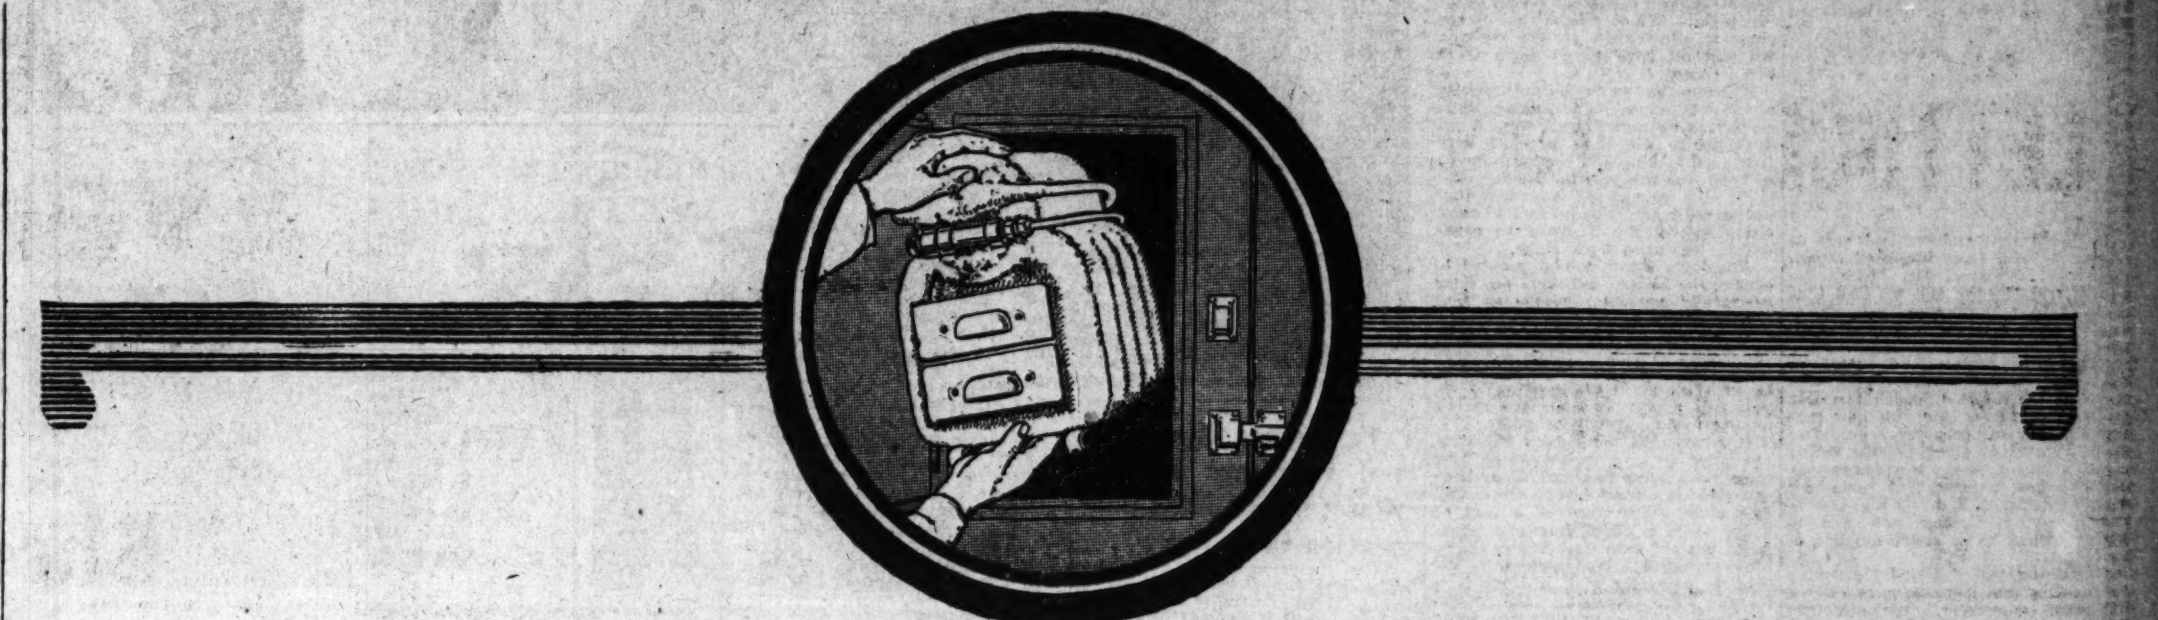

The non-com, whose name was not included in the story reaching Atlanta, ended his narrative by declaring that "the versatile sky-pilot was the most popular man in the outfit."

State's Advantages Will Be Advertised In Georgia Magazine

The June issue of the magazine will carry 16 rotogravure pages, which will be featured in future issues. One of the outstanding features of the June issue will be publication of the address recently delivered by Dr. A. M. Soule, head of the State College of Agriculture, on "Georgia Progress."

SOUTHERN FACTORING.

Major General William Luther Sibert was born at Gadsden, Ala., 66 years ago, and is naturally deeply concerned for the welfare of his fellow Alabamians. He won the highest distinctions in the engineer corps of the United States army, built the Gatun dam of the Panama canal, and is now in charge of the state port terminals at Mobile. In an address in Montgomery recently this qualified officer urged that diversified manufacturers be as essential to southern prosperity as is diversified agriculture. He supported his contention with facts that apply as cogently in any southern state as he applied them to his native Alabama.

The federal and state bureaus concerned with American industries have meticulously ferreted out the enormous resources of raw materials in the south that can be readily and profitably converted into finished goods by adjacent plants. The great growth of cotton textile, iron and steel, and lumber and furniture mills in the south in the last quarter century is "the proof of the pudding." Every day brings new evidence that far-seeing capitalists and industrialists are calculating the golden apples in the material orchards of the south and many of them are reaching eager hands to appropriate the largest and juiciest of the superabundant supply.

The go-getters of Georgia are awake to these facts and are liberally advertising in hopeful areas the extraordinary resources and opportunities to be found in our state. Notable successes have followed and more are promised.

But the main plea of General Sibert is for the planting and building up of local industries to utilize and transform the products of the farms, forests, quarries and mines around them, saving costly transportation charges, middlemen's commissions and frequently congested supplies at far-off mill doors. That is exactly the counsel that has been often urged by The Constitution. It sees clearly for Georgia, as General Sibert sees for Alabama, the vision of a state richly endowed by the Creator with a wealth producing, labor providing factory, mill or foundry in almost every county. Power is easily available, our ports are perennially open and inviting, and beside local and national demands we have the growing trades of South America and the Pacific littorals through the nearby Panama canal.

What more could we ask from Providence and Opportunity?

THE OCHS BIBLIA.

A monumental work in volume and value is in course of execution through the patriotism and generosity of Adolph Ochs, publisher of the New York Times. When the American Council of Learned Societies declared that the greatest common need of literature in this country is a definite "Dictionary of American Biography," Mr. Ochs approved the plan to provide it and gave the $500,000 needed to finance its preparation and publication. That is an opulent gift to his country and an educational endowment to the world for all time.

The work is under the editorship of Professor Allen Johnson, of scholar and critic of distinction, chosen carefully as fitted to select and signalize the citizens of our America who have contributed solid achievements in all the labors that have made us great among the nations. There will be twenty volumes embodying the careers of 20,000 persons who have enriched and ennobled our civilization. The dictionary will not be an advertisement for living authors whose deeds are not all done, but will be an honor roll of those whose labors have eased and whose records are sealed with honor.

Mr. Ochs has created a splendid benefactor by endowing this work. He deserves both gratitude and honor for demonstrating that a great journalist can be a great altruist and use his wealth in enterprise of a nobler order than boosting circulation and baiting the baser appetite of the public.

A FUNNY SHYLOCK.

When the French debt agreement is ratified by the senate, Uncle Sam will have gotten those foreign war debts "off his mind" somewhat, if not perceptibly off his ledger.

In order to get his mental relief he has given the debtors rebate to amount of $4,682,380.30. Yet, because he did not dampen his coat-tail, wipe the slate clean, and cry to the nations whose salvation he made sure with money and blood, "all is forgiven," he is still denounced all over Europe as "the shylock of civilization!"

A funny old shylock, we should say if anybody would ask our opinion. Here was an old provincial gentleman at peace with the world and active only in his own proper business. Suddenly the nations of Europe started the riot of the ages, flung at each other's throats like tigers, tore the laws of God and men to tatters, and those of them about to be annihilated called to him for help. He helped to the tune of ten billion gold dollars that he borrowed on his own honor from the pockets of his men, the stockings of his women and the penny-banks of his children. That so strengthened their resistance as to enrage their enemy to the device of sinking our ships, drowning our innocent citizens and rebidding us the ages-long freedom of the high seas!

Then this "war-profiteering, money-grubbing shylock" went greedily over with 2,000,000 of his rapacious sons and imposed a monumental miser's bill of account upon every one of the nations off whose bleeding backs he chased the kaiser and his Huns.

What a pity that Shakespeare died before he got a look at Uncle Sam! Then the world never would have known a shylock, but would have gotten instead a more dramatic, blood-lusting monster in the United States person who fills to day the vision of European contempt.

But, at the same time, the non-involved peoples of the globe will be as curious as we are to see whether honest money, beseechingly borrowed, and then generously discounted, ever will be repaid?

THE WORLD COURT ISSUE.

The senators who voted that this country should associate, with certain reservations, in the world court, and who are seeking to succeed themselves, are being hotly attacked by the isolationists among their constituents. One of them, McKinley, of Illinois, has already bitten the dust; the others are wearing their war helmets and hunting "the better ole." As it is almost wholly a republican family fight, the democrats occupying the bleachers are sitting pretty.

All the same we are not yet in the court and we never may be. It is with the council of the League of Nations to let us in and it is to meet in Geneva in September to discuss the reservations we have proposed. If they are found unacceptable, then the whole world court issue goes into the discard. Then we will go on depending upon diplomatic devices to accommodate our juridical relations with other nations.

The American policy, at least since the treaty of Ghent in 1814, has been to resort, whenever possible, to arbitration and rely upon just gentium for results. Congress has several times declared that policy and authorized the president to negotiate with all the nations with which we are in amity to join in establishing an international tribunal of arbitrations. It was in pursuance of that policy that Elihu Root framed the constitution of the court of international justice at The Hague. Should our tender to the world court be turned down by the council at Geneva, we could either resort to The Hague tribunal or negotiate on our own initiative.

Why do the democrats hunt for an issue when "the robbery tariff" is always laughing in their faces?

They say King George cannot speak the King's English correctly. Well, whose does he speak?

The president is out to win the states' rights championship and seems to be getting away with it.

While two women are scrapping for the Texas governorship some man may slip by them and get it.

Every farmer who turns from the Tinsler bill to a tractor will get his relief the quickest way.

The pole can now read with personal interest: the late Ochs's story, "Under Three Flags."

Chicago should give her gunmen a big bait of Crowe.

And sweet the rose blooming there—
The summer's chosen queen;
Along the valleys the violets spring
And the songbirds, sweetly sing
As in the long ago.

The south winds o'er the waters glide;
And whispering to the trees
Awake the music of her tide
And weary from life's toilsome days
My heart turns from his blight
To where the charm of nature's lays,
My youth filled with delight.

O could I wander there again
As in the years gone by,
Where soft the woodland's tender strain
Unto the waters sigh:
I could forget all life's despair
Amid so fair a scene,
Where sweet Oconee's banks are fair
And Putnam's hills are green.

Nuggets by the Wayside.
When Trouble takes a chair and makes himself "at home," it takes a diplomat to persuade him that what he really needs is outdoor exercise.

What some of the brethren who have pulled through this shivering spring now demand is a summer as hot as a sinner's dreams of the hereafter.

The minute it begins to look like a world full of joy, someone turns the devil loose and "sins" him on the saints.

The unfortunate North Pole is too firmly planted to pull up stakes and get away from the howling "discoverers" that will soon assail it.

Dreaming of June.
June morn, heaven born!
Beauty's train is here
With golden days and wonder ways,
For summer's call is clear.

June night, moon-light bright,
Bride and bridegroom say:
Troths they plight, forget Time's flight,
Sail merrily away.

Glad time in sunny clime,
Happy dreams are rife;
Hearts, will sing, woodlands ring
The melody of life.

"Use the Home Paper."
The bright and enterprising Cordele Dispatch says of the "home paper, and their work is done for its town and territory—

"The Dispatch has the largest home delivered circulation in Cordele trade territory. Advertising placed in the home paper will get you results. Let no other scheme or device fool you. Use the home paper. The rates make that form of advertising possible to use and the results are many times better than are to be found in any other form. Quit wasting your advertising money. Put it in the home paper and get results."

The Possibilities.
A sorry Springtime we have had, and, if no sleet hinders, now may the South get her mad
And burn the world to cinders!

There's no "lion" in the way in this day and time for the attorney, the speeding motorist would knock him sky high.

The Reason of It.
The Logansport Tribune says in its going column—

"A bachelor correspondent, who has not been in evidence for several days, sends in the following: 'A writer to know why it is that most men get girls have such hard faces? They aren't really hard, but when the fish dries on they look that way.'"

Frank Haynes' Tribute To South at Convention Of Cotton Association

(From Charleston News and Courier.)
Addressing the convention of the Atlantic Cotton association, Frank B. Haynes, president of the New Orleans Cotton Exchange and a former Charlestonian, urged that the condition of the cotton producer be improved and that care be exercised against delivery rules which would mean cheaper cotton. His conclusion was a beautiful tribute to the south, and it was warmly applauded. He said:

"If countries of Europe would 'inform themselves what the plight of the south was at the end of the civil war and of its condition today, they would cease feeling hostile and would realize that if they would exert the same energy, pluck and perseverance that we have, they will soon be prosperous and united with us. Certainly the south is ever so much more prosperous than it was before the civil war and yet it is heart-rending to think of the opportunities that we have lost. Why, by not realizing the value of our pine lands and cypress swamps and selling them to outsiders for a few cents, we have lost more money than we could have made by the civil war cost. It is pitiful to think of the small proportion of the enormous wealth that has been made out of the coal fields of Alabama and Tennessee and the sands of Texas and Louisiana and the minerals of many southern states has been made by our own people. However, there is no use in crying over spilled milk and there are still boundless opportunities left us and if we, the sons of the south, will stick by her, we will make her the most prosperous section of our country. It has been more and more acknowledged that we have the most delightful winter climate of any part of our country. The American people have made enough money to be able to play a little and enjoy life, and just as we in the south, who can afford it, pray for a cooler climate during a part of our summers; so the northern and western people are more and more going to avoid their rigorous winters and spend them in the south."

"I am as good an American as any body and my heart fills with pride when I see old New York after visiting the foreign countries; but when I cross Mason and Dixon's line I feel that I am in God's country and I am thankful that I am a southerner; that I belong to a people who are a place honor ahead of love or love, and whose women are 'like unto the polished cornerstones of the temple.' May our children and our children's children love and be proud of our country south as we of this generation are."

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK
BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

New York, May 19.—It's not only Gotham hotels and railroads and the railroad companies who complain that guests make off with all kinds of souvenirs. The steamships also have a long list. The yearly loss in silver on the Cunard liners run from $25,000 for the smaller ships to $250,000 on the larger vessels. When packing passengers' baggage, stewards come across ten-ponies, pepper and salt-shakers and cream jars bearing the company's crests. And in the case of hotels, pictures on the walls of the cabins are never safe.

It's a difficult evil to counteract. For the average souvenir hunter does not consider for a moment that he or she is stealing, but regards the appropriation as quite legitimate.

During a recent visit of some British warships to the Hudson the ships were thrown open to the public. Visiting a battleship in harbor is a favorite Sunday afternoon diversion for thousands of flappers anyway and the delight is heightened when the sailors are from foreign lands.

In the case of the British ships however, souvenir hunters carried away all sorts of things, including wine glasses, silver spoons, forks and knives.

One young lady souvenir hunter was caught by the owner in the act of cutting the buttons off a uniform hanging in his cabin. The Englishman had a novel way of punishing the little thief. He found needle and thread and looked her in, telling her that she would have to stay until she had not only sewn on the buttons she had cut off, but he reported the matter to the ship's officer and the young lady was kept busy with a few other jackets that had been similarly treated by other visitors during the day of hospitality.

The hotels suffer the worst, of course. They not only lose knives and forks, but sugar bowls, towels by the thousands, gloves from the chandeliers, small paintings from the rooms and even blankets from the beds. A forty-second hotel estimates its annual losses through theft and pilferage at a round hundred thousand dollars per year.

In the East Side I saw two bearded patriachs with their might tugs and hoisting a bag labelled: "Self-raising flour."

One of Park Row's young stars was married to a chorine six months ago and got his degree last week. He felt he must make some explanation of the mishap to his journalistic colleagues, so he told them this yarn.

"I asked my wife to sew a button on my shirt. It was merely to be a test. She forgot about it and I got the lid of a boot-polish tin, bored two holes in it with a can-opener and sewed that on the shirt myself. When I wanted to put on the shirt a few days afterwards I found that she had sewed a button hole large enough to fit the lid. That's the kind of a wife she is," he said. The boys somehow understood.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

Lunar Influence.
In the fifth century St. Augustine wrote "certain kinds of things, such as sea-urchins and shell-fish, are increased and decreased by the waxing and waning of the moon." Thirteen hundred years later French scientists classed Augustine's idea in the same category as Jonah's whale and Job's sun. Renewed investigation has proven, however, that shell-fish in the Mediterranean do obey the moon. The question, perhaps unimportant in the larger sense, has agitated learned societies for many centuries. A society founded during the reign of Charles II and consisting of "divers worthy persons inquisitive into natural philosophy" published a list of questions in 1667 headed: "Inquiries for Certain Parts of the East Indies." The following question formed one of the series: "Whether those shell-fish that are in England plump and in season at the full moon, and lean and out of season at the new, are found to have contrary constitutions in the East Indies?" The question about shell-fish and the moon was put to the "very inquisitive men" (to use their own phraseology) who founded the Royal Society expressed a belief which is not shared by all moderns.

Augustine was firmly convinced and before him even Horace and Cicero.

Body Builders.
Visitors to Tokio these days are not a little amazed at the sight of Japanese boys running about the streets almost naked. But there is a reason. They are practicing the "mizuguro," or old-age water purification rites in Fudo temples to improve through the grace of that particular god, their bodies. As they run through the streets in England plump and in season at the full moon, and lean and out of season at the new, are found to have contrary constitutions in the East Indies?

HEALTH TALKS

Even a doctor can't bury his mistakes when he makes 'em in print. It behooves us as much as it embarrasses me to acknowledge two mistakes I have made in my teachings, but I never hesitate to pounce upon any false teaching committed by other health authorities and so it is only fair to admit that I have made mistakes.

The first mistake I now acknowledge is that it is reprehensible for a woman or girl to have her hair cut. When this fact or fashion came along I looked at it and said everything I could to make the cutting or bobbing or a woman's hair seem mutilatory and deplorable. Now that was wrong. It was an unreasonable attitude and a narrow point of view. I regret now that I made this mistake. I fear it has inspired the confidence of some readers in my teachings and advice.

Although I still hate to see a woman's hair cut off or bobbed, that is, if she has the hair to begin with, it is of course no harm whatever in a woman or girl having her hair cut, bobbed or shingled as she prefers. It never made me feel any better or worse to see a girl's hair cut off, but it did make me feel that it was a mistake to have it cut off.

Copyings.
The announcement that the constitution of the Greek republic is to be, in essentials, a copy of that of the United States is interesting as marking a new stage in constitutional development. An English paper remarks that evidently Britain is now no longer to be reckoned the "Mother of Constitutions." Bentham was perhaps the first to adapt the English constitution to the needs of another nation, France. This was in 1791 and although Bentham himself expressed his disappointment in the result of his work, it is claimed with truth that "in Europe the parliamentary systems of all modern constitutional states have, without exception, been matters of form, too often in itself, been copies, more or less, of what was found in England." The English paper says "we can boast that even the American constitution is obviously a genuine shoot from the old English stem, even after making the fullest allowance for the independent and characteristic developments of the last hundred years in the United States."

Katherine's Loyers.
Klabund, the German critic, historian and playwright, has reduced Sallust's "requirements of lovers" for Katherine the Great of Russia to a more rational number of five or six. Though an autocrat, and a woman who corresponded with the most enlightened men of Europe, she was completely unacquainted with the requirements of the position of adjutant-general. She codified laws, wrote a constitution, and was a rule maker of low mental capacity. After elevating Potemkin to the position of adjutant, she even went to the extent of asking her lovers for permission to marry them.

"And now, Sir Hero, can I after this confession hope for forgiveness of my sins? You will see that it is not often but only one-third as many as the truth. God knows that I took them not out of debauchery, which I have no tendency. If fate had given me in my youth a husband whom I could love, I should have remained true to him forever. The trouble is that my heart would not willingly be one hour without love."

OKLAHOMA MINER FACTIONS DECLARE TRUCE AFTER WAR

Muskogee, Okla., May 19.—(AP)—A truce prevailed tonight between the two factions striving for control of district No. 21, United Mine Workers of America.

An unexpected attempt of Homer J. Jones, recently elected president by the district officers here did not materialize today. Jones and his followers said they were awaiting the arrival of members of the international board of investigation who represent John L. Lewis, international president.

William Dairymple, deposed president here, remained away from a district office which he closed yesterday with the arrival of Jones. He contends that his removal by the executive board at Fort Smith was illegal and refused to abdicate.

Jones and his forces refrained from attempting occupation of the offices in the fear that it would place them in an unfavorable light, they said.

MINNESOTA SETTLERS FIGHT FOREST FIRES

St. Paul, Minn., May 19.—(AP)—Hundreds of northern Minnesota settlers fought again today with rangers to fight the north woods' greatest menace—forest and brush fires, scattered over five state forest districts.

At least 75 fires were reported in the northern half of the state and sixteen of them were out of control, according to Duluth said. Fourteen settlers in the Cranberry section were homeless and scores of small buildings were destroyed in various districts.

The most serious blazes today, along the shores of Lake Superior, other districts reporting fires were Moose Lake, Hibbing, Bemidji and Deer River.

Winds, which reached a velocity of from 35 to 40 miles an hour yesterday, died down last night and this aided the fire fighters considerably.

GEORGIA ARTILLERY WILL GO TO JACKSON

The artillery division of the Georgia national guard will go to Camp Jackson, Columbia, S. C., for two weeks in July for its annual summer maneuvers. Adjutant-General Cox has announced. The adjutant-general said various civic organizations in the South Carolina capital had extended cordial invitations to artillery officers and men through him.

The infantry will do its summer "U. S. in the way of maneuvers at Tybee Island, and the cavalry will go to Oglethorpe in August.

HAASE HONOR GUEST AT "ALBANY FOLLIES"

Lewis Haase, manager of the Atlanta theater, will be guest of honor at a box party to be given at the theater at Albany today at the first showing of the "Albany Follies."

Mr. Haase, in leaving Atlanta for Albany, said that he had heard glowing reports of this production, as one of the finest amateur performances ever given in the south and was anxious to see for himself just how good it was. The "Albany Follies" will be shown at Albany at the Atlanta theater June 4 and 5.

While in Albany, Mr. Haase will witness the float parade to be staged this afternoon by the local lodge of Elks.

PEACHES IN CAR LOTS TO BE SHIPPED SOON

Macon, Ga., May 19.—(AP)—Strenuous efforts are being made by peach growers to ship one or two cars a week. Three refrigerator cars have been delivered at Fort Valley, but these have not been ordered to the field yet, nor have they been loaded.

The first car may not move until Monday, but growers hope to ship at least one car by Saturday night.

Livermore, Cal., express shipments of Mayflower are moving from different parts of the state.

Walker Cup Team Shows Great Form On English Links

American Golfers Style And Ability Greatly Admired

U. S. Golfers Enjoy First Day of Rest Running Around Sight-Seeing and Shopping—Bob Jones, Watts Gunn and Others Form Touring Fivesome.

BY H. C. HAMILTON.
Sports Editor, The Constitution.

London, May 19.—Prowling around in damp and dismal London on a cold afternoon, the members of the American Walker cup team put in their first real day of rest, sight-seeing and buying souvenirs and outfits.

Bobby Jones, Watts Gunn, Jess Sweetser, Jess Guilford, and Francis Ouimet made a "fivesome" on a shopping tour.

The Americans left for Muirfield Wednesday night in an optimistic mood, expecting to show considerable improvement over the bad golf they displayed at Woking on Tuesday.

They intend to start in seriously to become acclimated to conditions at Muirfield, and to learn the intricacies of the links over which the British amateur championships will be held next week.

No one of the members of the Walker cup team, thus far, is pleased with his form. All complain about the chilliness, but the English explain that this is merely an unusually cold spring.

Meanwhile, the British experts and newspapers are displaying increasing interest in the impending visit of some American professionals for the open championship. The London Daily

Mall wanted to establish a professional tournament rivaling the Walker cup, but was unable to put the plan into effect this year owing to the general strike.

WALKER CUP TEAM STRONG COMBINATION.

London, May 19.—(AP)—Play of members of the American Walker cup team at Sandwich, Rye and Woking, as well as in practice games, has increased admiration for their style and ability.

"There is not the slightest doubt," says Spouting Life, "that the Walker cup team forms the strongest amateur combination we have ever entertained. From what we already have seen, there is no question that once they are acclimated it will take the best golf we can produce to hold them."

New British Confidence.

The American golfers, facing new British confidence, due to their defeat by the Moles, six matches to three in four rounds at Woking yesterday, now will devote their attention to practice at Muirfield, Scotland, for the British amateur championship which starts next Monday.

The American team started preparation for the championship and the Walker cup last week when they entered for the St. George's vase at Sandwich. George Von Elm, of Los Angeles, finished second to C. O. Hazlett, of England, in the contest. On Sunday and Monday, the Americans, aided by C. G. Waldo, Jr., and James D. Standish, defeated a combination of Oxford-Cambridge players, six matches to four.

Chick Evans, of Chicago, former American amateur champion, has been practicing for several days for the amateur championship at Muirfield. In all, 17 Americans will compete for the title, including every member of the Walker cup team.

Only Alfred C. Ulmer, of Jacksonville, Fla., appears to have been unlucky in the draw for the amateur event. His opponent in the first round will be Roger Wethered, former British titleholder. W. C. Fawcett, Roland MacKenzie, Ulmer, Waldo, Jess Sweetser, Francis Ouimet, Von Elm, Larry Lloyd and Grant Peacock, of New York, and Watts Gunn, of Atlanta, are in the upper half of the draw, while Bobby Jones, A. R. MacKenzie (father of Roland), Dr. W. W. Rixey, of Princeton, W. Va.; Jesse Guilford, Donald Woodward, of Washington; J. B. Ryerson and E. Hoover, of Chicago; Standish, Bob Gardner and Evans are in the lower.

Walker cup matches begin May 2.

Sportively Speaking

by
H.C. HAMILTON.

The Aquitania.
Atlanta's Delegation.
Bob's Misfortune.

THE magnificent Aquitania. Could one ever forget crossing the Atlantic ocean in such a palace and through such smooth seas? I doubt it.

Thomas B. Paine, of Atlanta, a member of the executive committee of the United States Golf association, has been across the ocean many times and he describes the palatial Cunarder as the most popular boat on the seas. The crowd certainly bears out his statement, for the habitual sailors are here—folks who know the boats and who picked the Aquitania for her speed, seaworthiness and all-round attractiveness.

THE BOAT picked up a lot of last-minute sailors because of the strike in England. W. O. McGeehan, sports editor of The New York Herald-Tribune, who also is an excellent newspaper man in other respects, was discovered Wednesday morning after New York had been left far behind.

Mr. McGeehan explained that he had planned to sail two weeks hence, but changed his mind when the managing editor asked him to rush across and see what the strike was all about. Bill Cunningham, of The Boston Post, also caught the Aquitania.

THE OTHER newspaper men, however, are very few. Atlanta, which supplies two members of the Walker cup team now in England to play golf, also is supplying the bulk of the newspaper men, which shows very plainly the difference between golf in Atlanta and elsewhere. Boston has two residents who are members of the golf team, but only one newspaper man from the city is accompanying the players.

In fact, aside from Atlanta, Boston is the only city sending a man across for the golf tournaments.

BOBBY JONES arrived in England still hoping for a slight cut on his right thumb to heal. He slit the skin in Washington with a safety razor blade and then played 72 holes of golf. It was a bit sensitive when the party reached New York and had not healed entirely when this was written. He did not expect it to give him any noticeable trouble, however.

The remainder of the American team was in splendid health throughout the trip. Everyone proved to be a good sailor except O. B. Keeler, of The Journal, who spent the first day at sea in bed-begging Bob Jones and Tom Paine to shoot him. The next day he was on his feet asking for trouble.

FRANCIS OUIMET is about the only member of the amateur team who will not stay in England for the open tournament late in June. He expects to sail for home on the Aquitania on June 5, the first boat after conclusion of the Walker cup matches. He will be a participant, however, in the British amateur tournament. Both Bob Jones and Watts Gunn, the Atlanta entrants, will stay for the open.

GEORGES THINKS HUFFMAN PICTURESQUE ORCHID MAN READY FOR COMEBACK STEPPING STONE TO TITLE

New York, May 19.—(AP)—A picturesque figure in pugilism for almost two decades, Georges Carpentier, today shadow-boxed through the last workout of a long training grind which he hopes will put him back on the light-heavyweight throne.

Although the popular orchid man has only 32 summers flit past, his appearance in the Madison Square Garden ring Friday night for a 10-round battle with Eddie Hoffman, of California, will mark the opening of his 19th season as a boxer. His long fighting campaign has left few marks on the face of the finest pugilist of pugilism—Carpentier still is considered one of the handsomest men in the game and a pugilist whose prestige has been shaken only slightly by his knockouts at the hands of Battling Siki, Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey.

Carpentier looks upon his fight with the rugged Hoffman as a stepping stone to the throne from which he was tossed by Siki four years ago. Boxing men consider Tex Rickard's coup, in signing Young Stribling to box his first match after the Paul Berlenbach title fight on June 10 a link in the chain which Carpentier must complete by a comeback to win back his laurels. If Carpentier succeeds in dethroning Berlenbach, a triumph by Carpentier over Hoffman will set the stage for a championship fight between the Georgian and the Frenchman, in the belief of close followers of the game.

In the semi-final to Carpentier and Hoffman, Jack Kearns, erstwhile pilot of Jack Dempsey, will have on display the first time his new heavy-weight prospect, Napoleon Borval, who will be seen in a bout with Don Lieber.

PA STRIBLING WANTS TO GET JOE COOPER

"Pa" Stribling, crafty father-manager of Young Stribling, has entered the boxing game on a large scale, and before the present year terminates he probably will have a stable of fighters that will rival the menagerie that made Leopold P. Flynn a national character in the leather-punching profession.

Offers Large Sum.

Stribling is dicker with Johnny Cox for the purchase of the five-year contract Cox holds on "Farmer" Joe Cooper, the Terre Haute battler, who is matched with Mickey Walker for the welterweight title at the Indianapolis baseball park June 8. "Pa" has offered Cox a large sum for the contract providing the deal is closed previous to Cooper's match with "Walker." "Pa" to handle Cooper from the Walker battle until the five-year contract terminates.

Cooper meets Larry Avera here in a ten-round match on the Stribling-Newman card at the auditorium Monday night. Cox will give "Pa" a definite reply following Cooper's clash with Avera Monday night.

Formidable Fighter.

"Pa" is of the opinion that Cooper is one of the most promising young welterweights in America and that he is developing into Walker's foremost rival. Cooper is a combination boxer and fighter with a wallop in either hand and has stopped 12 of his last 22 opponents.

Two battlers recently added to the "Pa" Stribling stable go to the post on the Monday night card. Benny Touchstone, light-heavyweight champion of Florida, will oppose Ernie Perrin, of New Orleans. Touchstone is rated as coming by both of the Striblings. He recently fought a four-round exhibition at Miami field with Young Stribling.

Manager Arrives.

Perrin hails from New Orleans and comes here well recommended.

Has Confidence.

"Pa" has plenty of confidence in "Honey Boy" Snipes, the young Miami flyweight, who will oppose Benicy Regan, of Atlanta, in the opening eight-rounder. Snipes has been a consistent winner in Miami rings, while Regan has been doing his stuff in and around Atlanta.

Ray Neuman, the Jersey contender, has made many friends here since his arrival. Neuman is working daily at the Duncan gymnasium. Ray's record shows where he has opposed Gene Tunney, Paul Berlenbach, Jack DeMay, Captain Bob Roper, Wolf Larsen, Jim Maloney, Marj Burke and a host of other good battlers. Neuman has tangled with the best punchers at his weight and has never been floored.

Manager Arrives.

Low Diamond, Neuman's manager, arrived in town Wednesday. Diamond says that the Jersey boxer will go into the ring at the auditorium in better shape than he has ever been in his long career. Low opines that the easterner will win over Stribling as far as Bubbling Over heat the field of horses in the recent Kentucky derby.

The "rally-poly" candidate for Paul Berlenbach's title is an unassuming chap. He talks little of the fight game but limited that Stribling will be bettered from pillar to post when the gong sends the two on their ten-round fistic duel Monday night.

Matchmaker Watson requests the fans to secure their seats in advance at the Stribling-Newman headquarters, at No. 9 Auburn, to avoid a last-minute rush at the box office of the auditorium Monday night.

Bad Hand Keeps John Risko Idle

Cleveland, May 19.—(AP)—Johnny Risko, Cleveland light-heavyweight, will be out of the ring for at least a month. An examination of his right hand, injured in his bout with Romero Rojas at Buffalo several weeks ago and hurt again while training for his bout with Young Stribling at New York last week, revealed a bad bruise. Negotiations were pending for a bout with Jack Renault at New York May 28.

Many Atlanta Women In Southern Tourney Booked for Next Week

Every City in South to Send Representatives to Classic to Open at Charlotte Tuesday—Atlanta Favored for Team Trophy.

BY MRS. CLARENCE BRADLEY.

Atlanta, with more than a score of delegates, will be well represented in the annual southern women's golf championship tournament to be played at Charlotte, N. C., May 25 to 29.

And not only will Atlanta be strong numerically, but the city's entries will be of such calibre that the team trophy already looks like a certainty, while at least one Atlanta woman should, all the dope shows, go through to the finals.

However, every city in the south is sending a delegation, and the tourney promises to be one of the hardest fought in the annals of women's golf in the south. The first battle will come in the qualifying rounds, as the number in the championship flight has been reduced to 16 this year.

Among the Atlanta stars already entered are Mrs. Helen Dargan Lowndes, present city champion, who on two occasions has brought the southern title to this city; Miss Roselle Mayer, who twice has been runner-up in the southern, and who also is a former city title holder; Miss Jimmie Patillo, president of the Atlanta Women's Golf association; Mrs. J. R. Jague, Mrs. F. B. Porter, Mrs. T. T. Williams, Mrs. F. E. Forester, Mrs. Nora Hannah, Mrs. Jack Botham, Mrs. William Lohse, Miss Mal O'Brien, Mrs. Clarence Bradley, Miss Bill Doak, Mrs. L. Warren Grande, Mrs. Tommie Wilson, Mrs. Eleanor McAllister, Mrs. C. W. Strickler, Mrs. John Hill, Mrs. L. H. Beck and Miss Lucy Marvin Adams.

Latest reports from Charlotte are to the effect that Charlotte country club course, where the tournament is to be played, is in wonderful condition for the tourney. A total of 29 prizes have been offered by the city of Charlotte for the winners of various events.

Quality on Tuesday.

The opening day's program Tuesday calls for starting of the qualifying rounds at 9 o'clock; a business meeting at 3:30 o'clock, and a buffet supper at 8:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Ralph Van Landingham, president of the women's southern golf association.

The Hotel Charlotte will be headquarters for the Atlanta contingent, according to present plans, and the

DOUG WYCOFF GETS PLACE IN HALL OF FAME

BY CARTER BARRON

In official recognition of the prowess of Doug Wycoff on gridiron, diamond, basketball court and cinder path, the Georgia athletic board Wednesday voted to place a full-length portrait of the school's greatest athlete made, and a place set aside for it in the trophy room. For the present it will be displayed at the Tech Y. M. C. A., pending completion of the permanent trophy rooms.

Thus does Wycoff assume the first position in the jacket hall of fame. The greatest athlete Tech's only four-letter man, as everyone knows, completed his collegiate career Tuesday by driving out a homer to beat Georgia and give his team the southern conference championship.

Coach Alex has an informal gallery of stars in his office, including pictures of Joe Guyon, Everett Strupper, Buck Flowers, Bill Schuler, Red Barron and Tommy Spence, but Wycoff is the first Techite ever to be recognized in this manner officially.

Hagen Accepts Mitchell Defi

London, May 19.—(AP)—Walter Hagen, former American and British open golf champion, today accepted by cable a challenge for a 72-hole match with Abe Mitchell, of England, with a purse of 1,000 pounds.

The challenge was issued last winter by a British golf magazine. A. V. Wallace, Detroit business man, is reported to have taken the American end of the wager.

Hagen has planned to sail for Europe May 26 to participate in the open again this year, and his match with Mitchell will be played June 18 and 19, the first 36 holes at Wentworth and the second at either Orkney or Moorpark. The American is expected to receive the largest fee ever paid to a professional golfer in England, where remuneration is much lower than in the United States and seldom has been as much as 100 pounds.

British experts regard Mitchell as the greatest match player in the world.

EUROPEANPLAY FOR DAVIS CUP NEARING END

New York, May 19.—(AP)—With the exception of a match between Spain and Ireland, the second round of the European zone Davis cup tennis tournament has been completed with Argentina, Great Britain, Italy, South Africa, Sweden, France and Czechoslovakia advancing.

Argentina, victor over Hungary by 3 to 2, will meet the winner of the Spain-Ireland match, while Great Britain will oppose Italy, whose team defeated Holland, 3-2. These matches will decide the semi-finalists in the upper half of the draw.

In the lower half, South Africa, which advanced by a default from Austria, meets Sweden, victor over Switzerland by 3 to 2. The favorite team of France, which won all its matches against Denmark, is bracketed against Czechoslovakia, which defeated India, 4-1.

Third-round matches must be played before May 21.

Wrestling Champion Uses Scissors Hold To Pin Greek Down

Titleholder Wins Only Fall of Match After Long, Hard Struggle—Challenger Puts Up Game Fight in Attempt to Win Belt.

BY DICK HAWKINS.

Italy has its iron premier but Greco-America has its iron wrestler and that man is Jimmie Londos, diminutive grappler, who met Joe Stecher, lanky champion of the world, at the auditorium Wednesday night.

True, the little Greek went down to defeat under the gruelling scissors of the champion but not until after he had broken that "unbreakable" hold three times and had Stecher groggy from punishment as many other times. Stecher won one fall and the match in one hour, 45 minutes and 56 seconds.

Londos Misses Hold.
The fall came when Londos was applying a series of killing headlocks and bedlam was loose as thousands cried for a fall. Jimmie was after his fifth flying hold when he missed, went over Stecher's head and landed with a thud near the ropes. Before he could recover the champion had clamped on his deadly body scissors hold and the championship "as safe" in that moment Joe Stecher made it plain to the watching thousands why he is champion of the world. He was ready when the time came to take advantage of the "breaks."

Time and again throughout the gruelling match Londos secured wrist locks, headlocks, arm bars, head scissors and all the other holds in the curricula but each time when victory seemed within his grasp the stoic Nebraskan came out of a tight place by masterful defense.

Crowd In Up roar.
The performance which had the vast crowd on its feet in an uproar was that of Londos, who twice broke the deadly body scissors by sheer strength of will and muscle. The same scissors which made the great Zbyzsko call for mercy not so long ago at the same auditorium.

Stecher is the world's greatest wrestler and he has earned his title but there were many times Wednesday night when the champion felt the diamond-studded belt slipping and was taxed to the limit of his ability to withstand the attack of the little demon of Hellas.

When the match began and for many minutes, both grapplers were sparing for time. Stecher with his title in mind and Londos wary of the dread scissors hold. But after both wrestlers began to take the offensive the match defied description, for sheer action, gruelling punishment and exhibition of stamina.

Two different times the advantage seemed to be decisively on the side of the champion and the same number of times a fall for Londos seemed a certainty. At the end of the first hour Stecher pinned Londos with a body scissors when the Greek attempted to get a Japanese wrist lock. Jimmy lay in the grip of the tentacles for nearly 15 minutes then rose from the mat and threw the champion to the floor. It was an act of superb grit and staying power seldom equaled in the realm of sport. After a few minutes Londos broke the scissors and escaped what seemed to be certain defeat.

Champion Groggy.
Then on two other occasions Londos succeeded in getting the champ groggy with headlocks and began his flying falls only to have his opponent fall through the ropes and recover before returning to the ring. On neither of these occasions did the

TECH HI COPS PREP LEAGUE SWIM TITLE

BY BILL WHITE.

Tech High swimmers proved themselves better in the water than their opponents Wednesday afternoon at East Lake when they copped the meet by a margin of 11 points over their old rivals—Boys' High. The final result showed that Tech High scored 37 points, Boys' High 26, University School 9, G. M. A. 6, and Marist college 3.

The Smithies won four first places, many seconds, and two third places to run up their large score. Boys' High won two first places—the relay swim, and the 60-yard back stroke. McNamara was the star for the Smithie team, running away with the 25-yard free style and the 50-yard free style, winning both of these events with ease.

CUBA IS PICTURED AS PLACE FOR TRADE

Cuba offers a field of vast possibilities for the sale of Atlanta-made goods. It was asserted by speakers at the regular semi-monthly meeting of the Atlanta Foreign Trade club Tuesday night in the Ansley hotel. Business as a whole is on a sound, economic basis, it was stated. The fact that Cuba is almost entirely agricultural in character forces her to turn to other nations for her supply of building materials, tools, machinery, furniture, clothing, automobiles and the great variety of products demanded by a modern civilization. H. O. Williamson, export manager of the Atlantic Steel company, and president of the club, presided.

T. R. Greas, past president of the club and assistant state attorney general, urged establishment by Atlanta commercial and industrial interests of a joint exhibit in Havana to display Atlanta-made products. He recommended establishment of an agricultural experiment station on the island by American manufacturers of farm implements to educate native farmers to modern methods of cultivation.

Mr. Greas called attention to the fact that most of the furniture seen in Cuban shops and homes is of French make and that more German tools are in evidence than American. He pointed out the great market that exists in these lines for Atlanta manufacturers and urged them to cultivate the Cuban field.

George A. Bland, vice president of the Retail Credit company, who has returned from an extended trip through Cuba, stressed the need for sympathetic understanding of the people and the problems of the island by Americans.

"Cuba needs us and we need the products of this rich island empire," Mr. Bland declared. "Cubans frankly express the desire to know America, its products and its people better. I observed the highest type of citizenship among the business and professional men with whom I came in contact and they are worthy of our earnest consideration."

"Cuban business needs credit. With a better understanding, Americans are in a position to grant the terms desired in doing business on the island."

Harry O. Mitchell, acting chief of the district office of the department of commerce, cited recent figures on the foreign trade of Cuba that indicate a substantial loss of American trade in the island during 1935 and a correspondingly large gain on the part of European commercial interests.

Doomed to Die By Lethal Gas Pair Write Kin

Reno, Nev., May 19.—(AP)—With less than two full days to live, Stanley Jukich and John H. Randolph, sentenced to die by lethal gas Friday at the Nevada state prison at Carson City, today began writing farewell letters to relatives and friends.

The condemned men, occupying adjoining cells in the death row, Tuesday night asked for paper and pencils and except for the short bits of sleep they have taken, they have been writing almost constantly.

Work on the execution chamber in the center of the prison yard has been almost completed. A heavy screen has been placed over the observation window so that none of the witnesses might accidentally break in and release the poisonous gas.

Two wooden chairs, in which the inmates have been placed and strapped, have been installed, one a third larger than the other for Jukich is an unusually large man.

Behind the two chairs has been installed a heater which will bring the temperature of the death chamber up to about 80 degrees, facilitating the vaporizing of the deadly gas as it enters the room through a small pipe from a room in the rear. The gas tank and pump assembly has been installed and it is estimated that the execution will be over in 15 minutes.

An apparatus for drawing the poisonous gas out of the cell after the men are pronounced dead has been installed and should clear the room in a brief time.

The warden has not set any definite time for the execution, as he is anxious to avoid a crowd of the curious about the prison. Only newspaper men and a few invited witnesses will know the hour.

The state pardons board will hold a final session Thursday to take up the cases of the two men. Persons who have followed the cases closely do not look for any commutation of the death sentences.

OPERA FOR NEGROES SCHEDULED TONIGHT

The annual opera staged for colored people of Atlanta by the Booker Washington High school students, will be given at 8 o'clock tonight at the city auditorium. The production this year, a three-act opera, "The Marriage of Figaro," is said to surpass the opera given last year.

The play will be supported by a chorus of 1,500 voices and a band of 40 pieces, which were trained at the school under the direction of Kemper Harrell.

D. A. V. FUND FORCES WILL MEET TONIGHT

Every worker who has volunteered for the "cleanup" campaign of the Disabled American Veterans is expected to attend the campaign dinner at 6 o'clock tonight at the Ansley hotel, when territory will be divided and details of the drive discussed. The hundred men and women in the active campaign will start Tuesday to raise the remainder of the $35,000 fund promised for entertainment of the thousands of visitors.

Asa Warren Candler, vice chairman of the executive committee, will make the only speech of the occasion, explaining the situation and urging fast work to finish the big job.

The national convention of the Disabled American Veterans has been invited to Atlanta for the week beginning June 21, less than a month away. Organizations which extended the invitation promised an entertainment budget of $35,000, and this has not been raised. A committee of prominent citizens recently took over this task at request of the local chapter of the D. A. V.

WOMAN IS FINED $500 FOR HAVING LIQUOR IN HOME

Janie Traylor, of 849 1-2 Marietta street, was found guilty Wednesday in the criminal court of Atlanta on a charge of possessing one gallon of liquor and was fined $500 and sentenced to serve 12 months in the penitentiary, the term to be suspended upon payment of the fine. Judge Jesse M. Wood presided at the trial.

Mrs. Traylor was arrested on April 19 by County Officers Lieutenant Oliver, T. J. Davis and L. J. Dickerson, who raided her home and confiscated the corn whiskey.

NAPIER SUBMITS STATE ARGUMENT IN MILEAGE CASE

Attorney General George M. Napier Wednesday submitted argument in support of payment of mileage of 10 cents per mile to members of the legislature to and from their homes to the capitol during legislative sessions in the case testing such payment, which was heard by the supreme court Wednesday.

The case was appealed from Fulton county, where Judge John D. Humphries held that members are entitled only to the exact amount they pay out for transportation during legislative sessions, and no more.

The case developed when the question arose as to whether members of the legislature should be paid their mileage to attend a second extra session of the legislature called while all the members were in Atlanta finishing the first extra session. Walter McIlraith, of Atlanta, represented plaintiffs in the case, which is styled Martin and others against W. J. Speer, state treasurer, and others. It was sought to enjoin the treasurer from paying anything more than actual mileage.

I. C. C. To Consider A. B. & A. Purchase Application Today

Request of the Atlantic Coast Line to be permitted to enter into negotiations for purchase of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad will be heard today at the Baltimore hotel by the interstate commerce commission.

The Atlanta Chamber of Commerce will urge upon the commission that the transaction be allowed to proceed. B. S. Barker, executive vice president, will appear before the commission.

In a letter to the commission, the chamber of commerce declares that the move will be an advantageous one to the railroad and the people of Georgia. It was stated that the deal will give the line connections it has needed to assure permanent successful operation and that the road cannot be maintained successfully as an independent line.

RETAIL MERCHANTS ASK NEW POSTOFFICE

Resolutions asking for an "appropriation sufficient to build a new federal building for Atlanta which will take care not only of the demand at the present time, but of the greatly increased requirements that inevitably must follow in the wake of Atlanta's growth," were adopted Wednesday by the Atlanta Retail Merchants' association. This association is composed of 500 leading retailers of the city, embracing practically all trade lines here. The resolutions were addressed to the United States treasury and postoffice departments.

The present postoffice facilities of the city are inadequate by reason of increasing postal requirements, the resolutions point out, declaring that the present building not only impedes efficiency of the department at the present time, but ever will increasingly interfere with the federal work and with the constant growth of the city.

Frank Neely, president of the association, and J. P. Allen, chairman of the board of directors, signed the resolutions.

This action gives added impetus to Atlanta's efforts to secure a great new postoffice to cost approximately $5,000,000. Business men here are of the opinion that there is an extremely bright chance of bringing about the erection of such a postoffice.

B. M. McAllister, an inspector from the office of Postmaster General New, recently spent several days here. The local department is spending annually large sums of money in renting outside space. This is given as another reason why chances for a new building are considered bright.

The movement to secure the new postoffice has the support of every prominent business man in the city. All city federal officials as well as this district's representatives in congress and United States senate have concurred.

Wuxtry! Wuxtry! State Capitol Saved by Brave Fire Laddies

Ker-lang-lang-lang! Fire bells rang out Wednesday in alarm, the engines splitted and chugged on their way, and it was discovered that the state of Georgia's capitol was on fire.

All the historic spots dear to Georgians endangered. The spot that inspired Dr. Lucian Lamar Knight to compose his epic on the "New Rooms That Sweep Clean," Doctor McCallie's rocks and Pete Twitty's stuffed birds threatened with destruction. The sacred grove where the loyal legion of oil inspectors was first mustered into service at the mercy of devouring flames.

Clang-clang! Smoke gushed from awnings on the west side as firemen rushed to save history. The spot where Herschel Elgers talked himself hoarse in favor of the one-mile farmer. Where Fernor Barret spoke for days and days and yet more days. Where legislature followed legislature in extra session and extraordinary session. Oh, save the monument to the cause of prohibition. Save the spot where Hoke Smith wrote the letter to Joe Brown. Save the spots where they probed the highway department, aggie department, the educational department, the gubernatorial, placatorial and tonorial departments and half a dozen other departments.

Clang-gerlang-clang! Rushing to save the spots where the income tax was buried; where the silk box tax died; where the tax on bachelors was borne down in defeat. The spot where the Bible, the almanac and the calendar were adopted as the state's official literature—the numerous other spots sacred to Georgians.

Clang! Clang! But the firemen got there in time and saved the day with no damage to anything but several awnings. The origin of the fire has not been discovered.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR MECKLENBURG SIGNING TONIGHT

The 151st celebration of the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, signed in Charlotte, N. C., will be held in Atlanta at 7 o'clock tonight at the Druid Hills Golf club. A brilliant program has been arranged, one of the features being an address by former U. S. Senator Hoke Smith.

A humorous address will be given by Judge Shepard Bryan. A concert will be given by the children of Dr. N. E. Dunbar and a harp solo by Miss Eleanor Wilkinson, followed by dance selections by Miss Tootsie Dunbar and Miss Janice Shoppe. Election of officers will follow the program. Dr. S. R. Bolk, pastor of Grace Methodist church will preside.

But the firemen got there in time and saved the day with no damage to anything but several awnings. The origin of the fire has not been discovered.

Before You Invest—Investigate

Beautiful
Garden Hills

IN THE HEART OF ATLANTA'S FINEST RESIDENTIAL SECTION

The best advertisement ever written about Garden Hills is Garden Hills itself. The hundreds of Atlanta folks who have bought property in Garden Hills have done so not because of what they have read about it or what we have told them about it. But because they were shrewd investors and investigated Garden Hills for themselves.

We can think of no more convincing argument than to let a few of these business leaders of Atlanta tell you why they bought lots in Garden Hills.

Read what these keen Business Men, who investigated GARDEN HILLS and then built homes there, say:

FRED P. JETER, well-known Atlanta realtor, says:

"If my long experience with Atlanta real estate gained me anything, it was an appreciation of values. And the value of a home site in Garden Hills was so apparent that I lost no time in securing one. I consider it one of the most promising developments in the South."

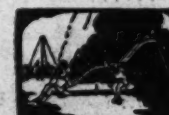

W. E. GATHRIGHT, Manager of the Western Electric Company, says:

"I am commending Garden Hills to my friends for many reasons. It is, first and foremost, a delightful place to live. The scenic charm of the place is a constant source of enjoyment to my family and myself. And I am secure in the knowledge that my investment is steadily enhancing in value."

T. R. BENNETT, State Superintendent of Banks, says:

"I carefully investigated all the real estate offerings in Atlanta before I bought. And I could come to no other conclusion than that Garden Hills presented the best in location, accessibility, and other tangible features that go to make up a profitable investment."

DR. T. C. COX, of Franklin-Cox, Atlanta Drug-gists, says:

"My decision to buy in Garden Hills was only reached after a careful investigation of many possible locations. I was very favorably impressed with the splendid location, the accessibility, and the many recreational features which have been guaranteed by Atlanta men whose word is their bond."

Visit SUNNY BROOK PARK This Afternoon

This afternoon Sunny Brook Park, the first of the units of the magnificent recreational center, will be open. You can find no pleasanter way to spend an afternoon than beneath the majestic pines of this exquisite Park. If there are children in the family, be sure to bring them. Let them revel in the delights that have been built here for them.

Playhouses, wading pools, swings, slides and many other features. A real five-acre paradise for little folks.

To get to Garden Hills, drive directly out Peachtree Road. Garden Hills is about 100 yards above Andrews Drive and East Wesley Avenue, this side of Buckhead. A beautiful 80-foot double Boulevard leads into the property.

Club and Civic Social Affairs Outstanding Events of Today

Club and civic affairs hold sway in society today, these events to combine a social atmosphere with the discussion of worthwhile projects and the outlining of plans to further develop the activities of these organizations.

Of interest to Atlanta club women and honoring a distinguished visitor will be the luncheon at which the Better Films committee will entertain at the Henry Grady hotel at 12:30 o'clock in compliment to Mrs. Thomas G. Winter. Mrs. Winter is past president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs and is an outstanding figure in this great organization. She is an authority on international relations, holding the chairmanship for this department in the general federation. The luncheon today given in her honor will assemble leading club women of Atlanta and the fifth district.

North Carolina Banquet.
The annual banquet of the North Carolina society at the Druid Hills Golf club this evening will be another important event and will bring together all former North Carolinians now residing in Atlanta. Prominent men and women will attend this brilliant affair and eloquent addresses and tributes to the old "Tarheel state" will be a delightful feature of the occasion.

Glee Club Concert.
Music lovers and members of the college set will crowd into the Atlanta theater this evening to hear the beautiful concert to be presented by the Emory College Glee club and Miss Suzanne Keener, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company. This group of college men are known as the "south's sweetest singers," and the proceeds from this evening's performance will be used to defray their expenses to Europe this summer where they will sing before the crown heads of foreign countries. College fraternities will entertain popular belles of the college set in their boxes at the concert this evening and a spirit of fun combined with exquisite music will reign at this lovely event.

Attractive brides-elect and interesting visitors will be central figures in numerous social affairs today, including luncheons, teas and supper parties.

Music Club Luncheon Features Speeches.

Following the musical program of the Atlanta Music club Wednesday the club's annual luncheon was held in the banquet hall of the woman's club, featured by eloquent tributes from Atlanta civic leaders in recognition of the civic value of the Music club's concert activities, voiced by Mell R. Wilkinson, president of the Presidents' club; H. M. Atkinson, director of the Atlanta Music Festival association; B. S. Barker, executive vice president of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce and new vice president of the National Chamber of Commerce, and representatives of other civic organizations.

Mr. Barker, recently returned from the National Chamber of Commerce convention, asserted that Atlanta is now the most talked about and the most favorably talked about city in America and that the city's leadership in music in the south is one of the most important factors in national recognition of Atlanta's rank as one of the great cities of America.

Mrs. Armand Carroll spoke in appreciation of the service of Atlanta artists in helping the Music club to steadily raise musical standards in Atlanta. Mrs. Charles Downman emphasized the need for more musical education among young people. Mrs. DeLoe Hill discussed the difficulties of building a season's program to make available dates of acceptable artists fit in with the dates available for the City Auditorium, the only building large enough to hold the crowds at the concerts of the civic series. Mrs. High Inman explained the Music club's ambition to establish a scholarship fund from the proceeds of its concerts to develop southern musical talent.

Enthusiastic plans were made for a large delegation to attend alumnae day at LaGrange college, on May 29. Mrs. Thomas M. The concert by Miss Renard, before announcement of the new officers, was the most largely attended morning program of the Music club's season and her masterly interpretations of Beethoven, Chopin and Liszt drew repeated encores, her reading of Beethoven's sonata, opus 57, proving especially effective at the opening of her program.

Downing, on Peachtree Circle, the ceremony being quiet and simple. The marriage service was performed by Dr. Carter Helm Jones, and was witnessed by only the two immediate families.

The bride wore an attractive gown of ash-of-rose crepe embroidered in pastel shades and her hat was a large picture model of neapolitan straw to match. She carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and valley lilies. Mrs. H. B. Downing, the bride's mother, was gowned in white Elizabeth crepe, embroidered in white.

Atlanta Club Women Urge Validation of Zoning Law

A movement to validate zoning laws for cities of Georgia was inaugurated by the Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs Wednesday when that body, in regular convention here, endorsed a resolution urging an amendment to the state constitution which would permit passage of such municipal legislation.

The resolution was introduced by Mrs. D. W. Wolfe and after adoption referred to the legislative committee, which will, in turn, press for an indorsement by the State Federation of Women's Clubs.

The Atlanta zoning law was recently held by the United States supreme court to contravene the constitution of Georgia.

Another resolution of importance was adopted—a resolution protesting against harmful and unnecessary publication in newspapers of crime details, stating that such publication has a tendency to promote rather than prevent crime, and exert an unwholesome influence on the youth of the state. The resolution also protested against photographing criminals and printing all that is said and done by them while awaiting trial or execution.

The federation urges all civic, social and religious bodies to join in protest against this evil, and urges all editors of daily papers and other publications to censor vigorously all news items concerning criminals.

Mrs. Robert K. Rambo, president of the federation, presided at the meeting, which met in all-day session Wednesday at the Druid Hills Golf club.

Resolutions adopted by the executive board at last Friday's meeting were ratified. These resolutions asked for an increase in the number of policemen in Atlanta and expressed approval of the movement now before the school board for better and larger quarters for the Opportunity school.

600 REPORTED KILLED IN DAMASCUS ATTACK

London, May 19.—The London Daily Express publishes a dispatch from its Damascus correspondent who quotes "semi-official sources" as authority for the statement that 600 civilian and 100 rebels were killed and 300 houses destroyed in a French bombardment of Damascus May 7.

The dispatch contains amazing details of the attack, although it has not been confirmed in any other source and there is thus far no explanation as to why the news of an event occurring nearly two weeks ago should not have reached the world before now.

The dispatch as published in the Daily Express follows in part: "Women and children were among those killed in the bombardment. The French casualties were approximately 20 killed and 80 wounded.

"The trouble began on the night of May 6 when rebel Druse tribesmen attacked the French army post at Boh-Moussa on the outskirts of Damascus and killed eight soldiers, taking 20 captives.

"Following the attack, 200 rebels took refuge in the Midan of the city which lies south of the main part of Damascus. They barricaded the houses of civilians and prepared to resist French troops there.

"Early on the morning of May 7, 3,000 French soldiers surrounded the Midan quarter which contains 80,000 inhabitants and ordered the citizens to surrender all rebels under penalty of immediate bombardment. Fortifications erected only recently separated the Midan quarter from the remainder of the city.

"In reply to the French demand, the inhabitants said that they were unarmed and thus had no means of compelling the rebels to surrender. They urged the French to capture the rebels without beginning a bombardment.

"The French troops gave the inhabitants 30 minutes to comply with their demand or to reach a safety area which the troops defined. Only a few of the native inhabitants succeeded in leaving in time, however.

"Twelve 3-inch field guns, four 4.8-inch Howitzers and twelve airplanes were used in the bombardment. Shelling began at noon and continued unceasingly for fifteen hours. Fires immediately broke out in various places and the sky was darkened by smoke and dust.

"In the panic that followed, natives joined the rebels in fighting off the French. Women and children rushed aimlessly about the streets and now and then one would collapse mortally wounded by a stray bullet of a bursting shell. Many were killed as their houses collapsed.

Delicious Combination Easy to Make Mixed Pineapple and Strawberry Jam

If you want to add a delightful "surprise" to your store of jams and jellies this year—a really delicious treat—make some mixed strawberry and pineapple jam by this simple, easy recipe.

No finer blend of flavors can be imagined than that of the delicately luscious strawberry with the refreshing tartness of ripe, juicy pineapple. Many women like this recipe, too, for its economy, since the pineapple makes your strawberries go so much further.

Crush to a fine pulp about 1 quart ripe berries. Put pineapple through food chopper, or chop very fine. (Canned crushed pineapple may be used). Measure 2 level cups of each fruit into large kettle. Add 7 level cups (3 lbs.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard for 1 minute. Remove from fire and stir in ½ cup Certo. Skim, pour quickly and cover hot jam at once with hot melted paraffin.

With such delicately flavored fruits as pineapple and strawberries the advantages of the Certo method are especially noticeable. For not only do these difficult fruits jelly perfectly every time, but the short boil, possible only with Certo, prevents the loss of fresh flavor and color which occurs during long boiling.

A book of simple, tested recipes comes with each bottle of Certo. Your grocer carries Certo, or you can send 10c (for postage) and get a trial half-size bottle which will make from 6 to 10 glasses of jam or jelly, depending upon the recipe used. Address Douglas-Peterson Corporation, 1941 Granite building, Rochester, N. Y.—(447).

A $400,000 annex to Grady hospital to be utilized as a pay ward is contemplated in the new finance sheet which is being prepared by the finance committee of council, it was learned Wednesday.

The June finance sheet will carry a $600,000 appropriation; the January 1, 1927 sheet, $65,000, and the January 1, 1928 sheet, $75,000—a total of $200,000—according to plans of the hospital and charities committee of council.

If the finance committee, city council and Mayor Walter A. Sims approve the proposal, Fulton county will be asked to provide a $100,000 fund, and a similar amount provided in the will of the late Jacob Elsas, of Atlanta, will be used to construct the new annex.

Mr. Elsas left the fund to be used in the event that the city and the county joined in raising a $300,000 fund to go with it in building the ward, and it is the intention of the

BRITAIN PROBES RUSSIA ATTITUDE DURING STRIKES

London, May 19.—(AP)—The British foreign office is considering whether it shall make representations to Soviet Russia in connection with statements reported to have been made by Soviet officials in support of the recent general strike in Great Britain.

The attitude of the foreign office is that the alleged statements are inconsistent with the friendly relations which officially exist between the two governments.

Mayor Sims Wednesday declared he was heartily in favor of the appropriation because there are "many persons who scorn charity but who would take advantage of a somewhat lower rate than other institutions charge."

Keeping Your Schoolgirl Complexion

By IRENE CASTLE

Think Twice Before "trying" an unproved soap on your face

Use only a true complexion soap; then this way

ONE of the first "don'ts" in skin care, if you wish to safeguard your complexion, is "don't" experiment with untried soaps.

Beauty experts urge daily cleansing of the skin and pores with soap and water. That's judged of prime importance. But you must use the right soap. That is, a true complexion soap.

That is why Palmolive is so widely urged. It is a unique soap; a soap made of rare cosmetic oils for ONE purpose only, to safeguard the complexion. Before it came women were told "use no soap on your face."

Soaps then were judged too harsh. Remember that point when tempted to "experiment."

Use daily in this way—it is Nature's formula to "Keep That Schoolgirl Complexion."

The daily rule that thousands follow now

Wash your face gently with Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all.

Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening: Use powder and rouge if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Blackheads and disfigurements often follow. They must be washed away. Just do this and your skin will become soft and lovely—wrinkles will be less a problem as the years advance.

Get real Palmolive

Palmolive costs but 10c the cake because of great volume and manufacturing efficiency... so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for the face. Obtain a cake today. See what a difference one week's use will make in your complexion. The Palmolive Company (Del. Corp.), Chicago, Illinois.

Final Agreement On Farm Relief Is Still Remote

Washington, May 19.—(P)—With rumors of a compromise persisting, consideration of farm relief legislation in the house will be resumed tomorrow after a day devoted to other business. Final votes on the Haugen price stabilization bill, the Tinscher credit measure and the Curtis-Aswell commodity marketing proposition, however, are unlikely before Friday or Saturday.

Chairman Haugen, of the agriculture committee, today said that the house would finish reading his bill for amendment tomorrow and be in position to take up the other measures as substituted.

Under the rules, the Haugen bill cannot be brought up for passage until there has been opportunity to offer the other two measures. Votes on the substitutes will come first.

Reports of a compromise between the Tinscher and Aswell forces are not denied by the sponsors of these bills, though they insist there is nothing definite to announce as to possible procedure. Representative Aswell, of Louisiana, ranking democrat on the agriculture committee, and co-author of the Curtis-Aswell measure, already has indicated that he would not object to having incorporated in his bill the feature of the Tinscher plan for a $100,000,000 appropriation for loans to farmers' cooperative associations.

Several Tinscher bill supporters hope it may be possible to offer an amalgamated bill as a substitute instead of two bills.

Others contend, however, that the parliamentary situation precludes such a move, and that if the two bills are combined, it will be necessary to accomplish it on the floor after both men have been offered.

The most controversial sections of the Haugen bill have been agreed tentatively, and the remainder of the measure probably will be read with fewer interruptions for amendments.

Ten Stills Destroyed Is One Day's Record In Oconee River Swamp

Eaton, Ga., May 19.—(P)—Federal prohibition agents out of Macon and county officers of Morgan, Greene, Putnam and Laurens counties yesterday started a general cleanup of whiskey distilleries on the Oconee river in this section and as a result of their campaign ten stills were destroyed together with more than 2,000 gallons of whiskey.

One still destroyed was so large that a steam boiler was a necessary adjunct to the plant. Officers reported that they found a number of small plants which were all torn down. Little information could be obtained from the raiders as they would talk but little about the campaign. It was stated that the campaign would continue until all such plants in the swamps in this county were destroyed.

Radicals Demand Special Session To Boost Franc

BY RALPH HEINZEN.

Paris, May 19.—Demands that Premier Aristide Briand convocate a special session of parliament to consider means of averting a complete financial crash in France were handed to him by a delegation of socialist leaders who visited the Quai d'Orsay Wednesday.

While the franc rallied, going to slightly less than 35 for the dollar in the morning, its improvement was only short-lived, and closing found it again low, at 35.15. Huddled conferences between the premier, Minister of Finance Raoul Peret, who returned Wednesday from London, and experts in the finance ministry and a call by Briand on President Doumergue failed to develop any constructive plan for halting the drop in exchange.

Realization of the increasingly serious financial condition in the country began to reach the average Frenchman Wednesday and the standing of the franc crowded out interest in the

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first child I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., RA 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. ## FLORIDA REALTY CASE MAY CLOSE TODAY AT DELAND

Deland, Fla., May 19.—(P)—While efforts will be made Thursday to complete the case of Harry Pretzman, of St. Louis and Daytona Beach, charged by the Florida real estate commission with misrepresentation in the sales of the Daytona-Deland farms, it was thought probable that the case will be adjourned until Tuesday to allow John E. Peacock, presiding judge, to appear in federal court in Jacksonville where he has been called as witness.

Eleven witnesses took the stand today for the defendant and gave testimony favorable to Pretzman. Some of the witnesses were purchasers of tracts and lots in the Pretzman development of 64,000 acres and asserted upon the stand that they were satisfied with their purchases and that the proposition had not been misrepresented to them.

J. C. M. Valentine, Volusia county surveyor, testified that he had made a survey of the Daytona-Deland farms and found that 25,830 acres were dry while there were 12,900 acres that needed drainage and could be handled with secondary drainage. The testimony was substantiated by M. F. Smith, a private civil engineer of Volusia county, who asserted that the tract was about 20 per cent swampy.

The Law of the Talon

By Louis Tracy

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

SYNOPSIS.
Jim Parks, Hudson Bay company's agent at Moose Lake, is greatly disturbed by a new item in the English paper announcing the coming marriage of Alistair Spencer Pantan to Ellen Grant and referring to the prospective groom as the heir presumptive to Lord Oban. The nobleman's only son, John Bridgforth Pantan, had disappeared some years before and his death is about to be presumed by law. Parks decides to leave Moose Lake and go back to England.
Arrived at Edmonton, Parks tells Mr. Leslie, the temporary head of the Hudson Bay company, that he is John Bridgforth Pantan.
Mr. Leslie's daughter, a sympathetic listener to the tale and she encourages her father to help young Pantan.
In the meantime Ellen Grant is married in London to Alistair Pantan. Immediately after the ceremony she learns that John Pantan is alive and is on his way to England to claim an inheritance left him by his aunt.
Lord Oban, John Pantan's father, tells Ellen that his son had been dismissed from the army for cowardice under fire and drunkenness and that he is unable to forgive him.
John and his dog, Spot, start on the long trip to England.

INSTALLMENT X. A SPIRIT IN REVOLT.

The conductor had noticed the newspaper, of course. Elsewhere on the train he secured a copy. He could not fail to detect the likeness of the "missing heir" to the dejected man bound for Ottawa. Then he whistled, and used the appropriate words, but, being quite a decent citizen, kept his knowledge to himself.

All that day and long into the night Pantan tried to peer into the future by the light of what had gone before. As he grew calmer his ideas became more fixed. Regretfully, but with due regard to the verities, it must be recorded that the course he favored was one which no realist on either side would have recommended. He had put his hand to the plow, and would not turn back. He would go home, claim his legacy, and make himself thoroughly objectionable to all and sundry members of his family. He did not ask himself what would happen when he met Ellen and Alistair. Why bother one's brains about developments which would certainly be altogether different in fact from anything planned in imagination? But vengeance in some form he would exact, with no more mercy than the stork shows to a rabbit. His suffering would not matter at all. He might expect to be ostracized by every man and woman of his own class who recognized him, and he would never consent to be taken up by friends to whom his money alone would supply an "Open Sesame!" But he could make those others cringe, too. He could humble their pride, lower their social status, daub them with some of the Flanders mud which encrusted him.

Thus and so did the spirit of revolt suggest the way. O, he would light a torch in Inverness which would flame through Mayfair and Belgrave. First, secure the means; then, strike with blind ruthlessness.

Spot was a thoroughly disconcerted hound when next he was allowed to stretch his four legs alongside the train. It was bad enough to be cooped up in a rumbling and shaky box for an interminable time, but far worse to find Master suddenly stricken with care. Why, life had not been one-tenth as cheerful the night they were snowed under in the open, and had to take a chance in the lee of a rock that next morning they would be able to crawl forth into the light of day once more. What in the world had caused this change of mood? Did Master, too, dislike his box? Now, if only a marten or a hare, or even a squeaking rat, would run out from under those hot and nasty smelling houses that moved, there would be something doing, and this fit of depression might pass.

Pantan had retained his newspaper, and at breakfast he read again that unhappy paragraph.

Pantan had retained his newspaper, and at breakfast he read again that unhappy paragraph. There was no gainsaying its accuracy. It was the logical outcome of the earlier proceedings in the probate court. He saw now that arrangements for the wedding must have been made a good deal in advance of the application to presume the heir's death as from a date nearly seven years ago. The postponement of the actual order in its operative form probably took both families by surprise, but they had thought fit not to defer the ceremony. Thus far, he had little to carp at, but when a man has been robbed successively of reputation, rank, income, and the love of a desirable woman he is not inclined to analyze the various stages of the process, rather does he view the great result in its final significance, and, from this standpoint, one sinister figure, that of his cousin, Alistair Spencer Pantan, stood out clearly in every phase of his downfall.

This discovery, if not quite new, had never been so dramatically definite. It was, of course, the marriage which supplied the fifth act, the culmination to a long drawn out tragedy. John Pantan found himself longing to sink his fingers in Alistair's flesh, to clutch a good deal the very prospect of such a balancing of a one-sided account, he actually examined the man's photograph with a calculating eye. Yes, the years had added tissue which was not muscle. The Asp would wriggle most satisfactorily!

He looked at his father. Lord Oban was frailer and thinner, but that was only natural. Married rather late in life, he was nearly forty years older than John. A younger brother had taken unto himself a wife long before; thus it came about that Alistair was John's senior by six years. The laird of Inverlochty, "Loch o' the Glen" to every Scot who hailed from western Inverness, was still erect and stately. A true Highlander, he might have stepped out of the frame of more than one ancestor depicted in the family portraits.

Then the derelict member of the clan forced himself to study Ellen. The slim, boyish, straight-limbed girl, with the laughing eyes and tangled hair, that came about the neck of the fair-haired youth when he went to France, himself well under age for a commission, as he was in his first year at Sandhurst when war broke out, who had welcomed him and taken a tearful leave of him during the all too rare homecomings while a dreadful struggle followed its blood-stained course, who, in that ghastly hour when he left Inverlochty forever, had waited, white-faced and frightened of the knew not what, to kiss him for the last time, only to be sternly repulsed—well, here she was a woman, a gracious, beautiful, and altogether wholesome type of the British aristocracy at its best.

Breeding will tell. Colonel Grant was a well-born man, and his wife had come from a house which numbered dukes and earls among its progenitors and present descendants. Ellen was now at the beginning of her decade of real loveliness. The tomboy high spirits had softened into femininity. Her slimness was that of a perfect physique. Once they two had climbed the thousand feet of Ben Nevis together, and she not only held with him to the summit but beat him in a mad race down the ridge of stones which marked the line of the telegraph cable from the observatory to the shore of Loch Eil. He was not so sure that she would not equal that record today, though his sinews were toughened by five years of a hard life.

He forced himself to put away even the crude newspaper reproduction of her charming face. He feared lest his purpose might weaken. Indeed, finding the page in his pocket when next he went to liberate Spot, he threw it deliberately into a receptacle for rubbish.

At Ottawa he met with no great delay. He had the luck to find an old passport, made out in his proper name, in the trunk he left behind at Montreal. Unfortunately, the clothes it also contained were useless. He had broadened out in those seven years, of which two were passed on farms and the remainder at Moose Lake. There was not a DeBrett or "Who's Who" in the ship's library. The mild nine days' wonder caused in Great Britain by the "Oban Peerage Case" had not lasted nine hours in Canada. To the best of Pantan's belief not a passenger in the ship recognized him as the missing heir.

You Folks Who Want a Car, That Sweet Girl Graduate— Here Is a Chance for You Remember Her Now This Way

"Never have there been such good bargains offered to the public in used cars as we offer right now," stated Frank E. Garmon, manager of the Darnall used car department, at 228-230 Peachtree street, yesterday.

"We are having regularly from 75 to 100 cars to select from almost every day. If there is a lady or a gentleman among you readers who wants to get a big value for little money in good cars, we certainly have it at this time," stated Mr. Garmon.

Looking around, Mr. Garmon said: "There is a 1925 Hudson coach, mechanically perfect, with new paint, balloon tires, $150 worth of extra equipment; here is a 61 Cadillac, 7-passenger touring, Duco paint, and right in every way; a Buick 8, touring, Duco paint, two extra tires, A-1 mechanically, with 1926 license tag; here's a 1926 Oakland, 5-passenger touring demonstrator—a real buy; 1924 Hupmobile sport touring, new paint, four brand-new tires and fully equipped; Hudson coach, original paint, disk wheels, five good tires, steamer trunk and plenty of equipment; 1924 Oakland 5-passenger sport touring, new paint, disk wheels, side shields, and new tires; 1925 Ford coupe, new paint, new tires, license tag; 1923 Dodge, business man's coupe, fully equipped, license tag, and a price that is extra low; Oakland coupe, 1923 model, new tires, new paint and mechanically first-class; brand-new 1928 Ford coupe, fully equipped; 1925 Ford coupe, new paint, new tires, license tag; 1925 Ford roadster, side shields;

1924 roadster and 1924 touring at prices that sell at sight."

As Mr. Garmon started to show more the visitor thought it better if those that even were thinking about getting a car would call by their big salesrooms, right across from the new Norris building now going up on Peachtree street, and see what splendid bargains they can get here in used cars, then they will know where to buy used cars guaranteed to be right.

New Sterilizing Machine Improves Renovating Work

Each passing year sees some improvement in the various lines of endeavor. This year comes an important improvement in the mattress business and for those doing much renovating. A new machine has been invented very quickly to sterilize mattresses to be made over again!

The Dixie Mattress company, of 488 Decatur street, recently installed one of these new machines in their large plant and their customers are saying to their friends that one cannot tell the difference between a new mattress and the old mattress that has been renovated by this wonderful process.

As there is no extra charge for this sterilizing process, the Dixie is doing a big business with hotels, boarding houses, hospitals and other institutions as well as with private families.

Floor space and good equipment are big factors in the mattress business. This firm has ample space and exceptionally fine new equipment. This reason, coupled with the fact that both proprietors are mattress men of long experience, explains the good work quickly done at very attractive prices—always assured when done by the Dixie Mattress company.

This firm carries a very nice line of standard and fancy tickings and a phone call at 174 0605 will bring J. A. Crumley to any place in Atlanta or vicinity with his line of samples. In a short time any housekeeper in this section can make selections of coverings for mattresses in the home.

Hints for Women.

COLLAR AND CUFFS.

The separate collar and cuff sets have regained their importance and tell the story of true cleverness in fashioning smart accessories at home. The silk collar with a long tail bordered in gold is very good. Polka dot linen in blue and white bound in blue makes the collar and cuff set. Etern lace and grosgrain ribbon in golden brown are combined in the side frill. White lace collar and jabot makes a chic accessory of the silk suit.

TO REMOVE TALLOW GREASE.

To remove tallow grease from clothing pour a little turpentine on a woolen rag and rub the tallow with it. Then put in the safe until the turpentine has evaporated.

LAMP FOR SUN PARLOR.

A most amusing lamp for the garden or sun parlor is a huge frog of green pottery. The frog sits upon a low bowl carved from limestone; in the mouth is concealed an electric light bulb.

PILLOWS OF CHECKED LINEN.

Square, round and oval pillows covered with checked linen in smart color combinations are ideal for the summer cottage.

DUPLICATE LAUNDRY LIST.

A duplicate list of clothes sent to the laundry is such a useful thing to have that it is well to keep on hand, with the tablet for writing the original list, a sheet of carbon paper. This paper placed under the original list as it is written, will give a perfect copy.

Straightline With Pleats.

According to the famous dress designers, women are going to look slender while wearing frocks that have quantities of supple material crushed into them. There can be no doubt about the triumph of the straightline—and consequently the triumph of pleats.

The latest idea in pleating is the ripple pleat, which gives a corded effect to charmeuse or silk crepe. It is in reality a cunning machine pleat, which never seems to get out of place. Sets of sunny frockers are introduced at wide intervals on tea dance frocks.

Plain and very finely pleated crepe marocain in boue de rose was used for a smart dance tea frock. With it was worn a turban and girdle of dull gold tissue.

Just across from M. Rich's Broad street entrance is the jewelry store of Daniel & Dodson, with a fine line of watches, diamonds, jewelry and silverware of every description.

This firm has an exceptionally fine line of watches, diamonds, brooches, bracelets, vanity cases, Gorham silver—both in flat and hollowware, goblet water pitchers, vases, baskets and candlesticks as well as odd pieces of silverware and all the standard makes of jewelry now in style.

As gifts from this shop will last for a long time, would it not be timely to remember the sweet girl graduate or the dear friends about to be married with a handsome present from this shop? As the years go by would they not when looking at the thoughtful present, remember with pleasure the event that prompted the gift?

Messrs. Daniel & Dodson are popular, live, civic leaders in Atlanta, and at their central location are continually directing strangers in Atlanta to points of interest in this vicinity. Their store is becoming a very popular place for visitors.

Recipe a Chef Got in Ceylon

Paul Reis, supervising chef of the Southern Pacific system give a recipe he traveled 3,000 miles to get.

It was in the days when chefs kept their formulas to themselves that he tasted the "chicken dish from Ceylon." His friend, also a chef, prepared it but refused to divulge the recipe. Intent upon the recipe, Mr. Reis took a boat to India and eventually arrived at Colombo, Ceylon. Much diplomacy and many gifts were necessary before the originator of the dish would give it up. However, he consented one day to show how the chicken was cooked, step by step. At that time the use of curry in cooking was quite a fad.

The dish is known as curried chicken with rice, Colombo, and here is the recipe:

Disc one onion, two whole green peppers, a clove of garlic and braise in butter. When vegetables are well moistened through, add one banana sliced, three slices of pineapple crushed, one heaping tablespoon of flour and two of Madras curry powder. Stir well and, when thoroughly mixed and heated, add one quart of coconut milk, made hot, one-half cup of Indian chutney and boil until all ingredients are cooked soft.

Have two chickens disjointed, season with salt, dredge in flour and saute in pan.

Force curry through a strainer over chickens and let them simmer slowly in the sauce for about ten minutes. Serve chickens on a bed of rice with sauce poured over. Garnish with flakes of fish salted, dried in the sun and crisped in the oven.

Spring Stirrers Fancy.

In the spring a woman's fancy turns to new house furnishings. "Freshen up a bit" may be the innocent phrase with which she opens the conversation in which she intimates her intention of making her house more livable, more beautiful and more comfortable.

It may be that a new rug is the first real sign that the whole house is to undergo a radical change, or that a small touch of fresh paint is the harbinger of an entire change of color scheme within your walls.

"Never worry about your wife's lack of interest in the home as long as she changes the furniture about the room until you cannot find your favorite chair," warned an old-time philosopher, "but when she quits heaving the davenport from place to place and is satisfied with the curtains, look out! That is a danger sign in domestic seas."

The normal expression of interest in the home is perhaps higher in the spring after having lived in close association with the furnishings behind closed doors all winter. The very freshness of a gay chintz, the charm of arrangement due to the purchase of a Winthrop desk and two needle-point chairs, or turning the porch into an out-of-doors living room are milestones in the growth of a real home.

Perhaps the first "spring freshening" will begin with the windows, for taken all in all there is nothing in the home more effective than attractive draperies, a field that may be done inexpensively, if need be, lavishly if one can afford it, but always with an eye to adding color and beauty to the home.

Psychology and Dinner.

Mrs. Housewife, are you in the habit of asking your husband, when he rises from the breakfast table: "What shall we have for dinner?"

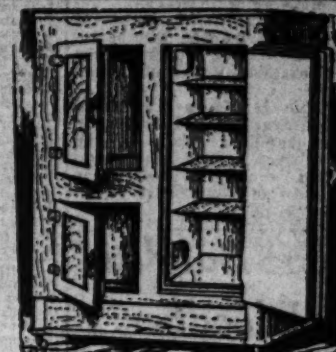

Oh, please, don't do it.

It is bad psychology, a professor of that science arises to remark. How can a man loaded down with a couple dozen buckwheat cakes, three cups of coffee and a pint or so of maple syrup, know care what he would like for dinner?

Now women are different. They think in terms of the kitchen, not the dining room. In a great many homes the dishes for one meal aren't done before preparations for the next meal must be put under way.

So, Mrs. Housewife, you have a perfectly good and normal reason for asking hubby, "You want to please him, and if he'll just drop a hint, you will. But choose your time nicely. Ask him just before he sits down to dinner what he wants for dinner tomorrow. Then, if you have roast beef today, and he answers: "Roast
